VOTE AGREEMENT ON KELLOGG PACT SOUGHT IN SENATE

Moses of New Hampshire Requests That Early Date Be Set for Disposition of Treaty.

BORAH FAVORABLE TO THE SUGGESTION
Action Deferred When Barkley Resumes Debate—Questioned About Monroe Doctrine.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—An understanding for an early vote on the Kellogg anti-war treaty was asked for in the Senate today by Senator Moses (Rep.) of New Hampshire, who has led the fight for an interpretative resolution to accompany ratification of the pact. The move for settlement of the difference of opinion among Senators, heretofore handled in off-floor conferences, was broached openly in the Senate when debate on the pact began to lag. Chairman Borah, of the Foreign Relations Committee, who is sponsoring the treaty, replied that he would be glad to consider the suggestion of Moses for an agreement. This far Borah has steadfastly rejected all proposals for a compromise on an interpretation of the pact and on Tuesday night broke off all negotiations to that end.

Senator Barkley Speaks.
Pending a renewal of the negotiations proposed by Moses, the Senate went ahead with debate. Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, taking the floor. At the outset Borah assured Senator Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, that he did not consider that the treaty would preclude "any nation from seeking any readjustment of its boundaries so long as it is undertaken by peaceful methods."

In an effort to speed up debate the Senate had met an hour earlier today, and an immediate vote appeared imminent on Moses' suggestion, but it was deferred when Senator Barkley asked to deliver the speech he had prepared. He endorsed the treaty but expressed disappointment that Secretary Kellogg had not said "just a little more" in explanation of the position the United States takes in adhering to the pact.

Later Senators Reed, of Missouri; Borah, and Moses went into a brief conference on the floor. Borah has agreed to have the Foreign Relations Committee submit a report of its views of American obligations under the treaty but neither he nor Secretary Kellogg is willing to transmit such a report to the other powers.

Blaine Again Attacks Kellogg.
Questioning Senator Barkley, Reed of Missouri, asked if "Secretary Kellogg purposely avoided reference to the Monroe Doctrine so that South American countries would adhere to the treaty." Senator Blaine, (Rep.), Wisconsin, interposed that he thought it was not only unfortunate but a "betrayal of his country" that Secretary Kellogg had not informed the other nations that this country did not consider that the treaty affects the Monroe Doctrine.

"I won't go that far with the Senator," replied Barkley. In the debate, Reed referred to the exceptions taken by the signers of the Locarno treaty that the antiwar pact would not apply to them in case of violation of the Locarno agreement. He said that rendered the Kellogg treaty meaningless.

"All we are doing is throwing a kiss to Europe," Reed said. "Well," Senator Barkley replied, "it is better to throw a kiss than a bomb."

Walsh Explains Stand.
Senator Walsh of Massachusetts yesterday discussed most of the treaty as consideration of "ways and means by which war can be waged by the several countries without violating this peace pact and escape its moral consequences." He called attention to the armament programs of other nations and gave warning that this country likewise should be careful not to neglect its naval program.

"I shall vote for this treaty," he said, "not because I am entirely certain that it is a real, genuine movement that will materially advance the ending of war and the promotion of peace of the world, but because failure of the United States to ratify it now in view of her participation in the international negotiations that have brought it into being would be understood. It would place the United States, regardless of her sincere and profound desire and purpose to bring about peace in the world, in the position of an obstructionist to such a movement."

Senator McKellar declared for the treaty because he thought all international disputes should be composed by peaceful methods. Failure to ratify the treaty, he declared, would put this country in an imperialistic position before the rest of the world. However, he took its place alongside that of Great Britain.

know how much they were to get for the "job."

When the plot was first formed, they said, it was decided merely to slug Wood and carry him to the country and then rob the office safe, in which, they were assured, a large sum of money always was kept. This they were to divide. The combination of the safe, they were told, was known by Holt. Fiers said Haggerty introduced him to Mrs. Wood and invited him to join in the plot. He was told, he said, that Mrs. Wood wanted some valuable papers from her husband's safe, and that the men were to get the cash. He said he did not know that Wood was to have been killed as part of the plot.

Thompson's statement was much like Pierce's. Thompson and Pierce were employed by a private detective agency here and Haggerty was a former employee of the concern. Haggerty came here from Toledo several years ago and Pierce and Thompson came here three years ago from Kentucky.

Extortionist Killed.
Max (Crying) Marx was shot and killed Tuesday noon when he and a companion were receiving extortion money from Ben Glines, the proprietor of a restaurant. His companion, Edwin Edwards, was shot and is in a serious condition.

Police Inspector Garvin announced yesterday he had given orders to his men to shoot to kill, if any known extortionist, caught in the act of receiving money, "makes a false move."

Garvin said he had previously warned Marx and Edwards that he knew they were making trouble in Detroit and told them that if they remained here they would "end up in the hands of the undertaker."

GOODS WORTH $942,041,821
MADE IN ST. LOUIS IN 1927
This is about $65,000,000 more than total in 1925, U. S. Census Bureau estimates.

Increases in the number of manufacturing establishments, in the number of wage earners employed, in wages paid and in the cost of materials utilized in St. Louis are shown by preliminary statistics of the United States Census Bureau for 1927 as against 1925, which were received yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce.

Value of products manufactured was $942,041,821, as compared to $874,657,373; number of manufacturing establishments, 2714, as compared to 2367; number of wage earners, 110,985, as compared to 105,022; wages paid, $136,278,675, as compared to $130,826,964, and cost of materials, $346,775,553, as compared to $313,429,676.

According to W. R. Weisenburger, president of the Chamber, the Census Bureau did not include about $60 establishments which produced less than $5000 worth of manufactured articles each, and which would have increased the total value of products to more than $1,000,000,000.

SENATOR GILLETT AND HOOVER IN TALK ON CABINET

Massachusetts Leader Declines to Go Into Details Following His Conference.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President-elect Hoover continued today his crowded schedule of conferences with political leaders, with a view to determining, if possible, before his departure for Florida next week, whether and when he would be obliged to call a special session of Congress to consider farm legislation.

Recommendations for Cabinet appointments continued to pour in on Hoover from his callers, who included Senator Gillett of Massachusetts and Senator Phipps of Colorado.

C. Bascom Sloop, a former Republican representative from Virginia, Hoover discussed means of consolidating in that State the advantages gained by his party in the election. Sloop told the President-elect that with Virginia's swing to the Republican column last November, the chances were excellent for the election of a Republican Governor this year.

After the conference Sloop said that he himself was not seeking any presidential appointment. Senator Phipps said he had reviewed with the President-elect the legislative outlook in Congress with special reference to the likelihood of a special session, and Senator Gillett, who intimated that Cabinet appointments had been discussed with Hoover, declined to go into details.

Rail Engineers Offer Candidate.
C. W. Laughlin, national legislative representative of the National Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, submitted to Hoover the Brotherhood's selection for appointment as Secretary of Labor. Laughlin said after his conference he did not feel at liberty to disclose the name submitted.

It has been known for some time, however, that friends of W. N. Doak, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and a leading representative of organized labor here, have been urging his name on the Hoover advisers.

F. C. Davila, resident commissioner for Porto Rico, also called upon the President-elect and told him of the enthusiasm in the island over his prospective visit. Hoover, he said, assured him that he would visit the West Indies if he had time.

Grange Chiefs Discuss Problem.
The Executive Committee of the National Grange called on Hoover and discussed with him features of their legislative program. The committee, composed of Louis J. Tabor, National Master; Leslie R. Smith, secretary of Boston; Eugene Eckert, chairman, of Massachusetts; and Albert S. Goss of Seattle, Wash., said after the conference that their organization still stood on its previous declaration that they would favor an extra session of Congress if satisfactory and comprehensive measures for the relief of agriculture were not adopted at the present session.

Taber said that Hoover had always shown himself to be very sympathetic toward the rural problem and added that he was convinced that a satisfactory solution of the subject would be found within the next year.

The Executive Committee emphasized that they would deem a special session of Congress necessary unless at this session of Congress, as approved by the legislature, comprehensive enough to effect higher agricultural tariffs, change the existing land policy and other aspects of the farm problem were adopted.

To Deliver Radio Address.
Before his departure for Florida, the President-elect will deliver on Saturday night his first radio address since his election as a part of the program of dedication and formal opening of the new Great Northern Railroad tunnel through the Cascade Mountains, said to be the longest tunnel in the United States. Hoover will speak over a national radio hookup from Washington. The program will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. Central standard time.

Director Lord of the Budget Bureau also had a place on Hoover's engagement list, as had Representatives French of Idaho, Davenport of New York and Treadway of Massachusetts.

Later in the day Senators Thomas of Idaho and Vandenberg of Michigan were scheduled to see Hoover.

Recommendations for Cabinet appointments continue to fall upon Hoover. Representatives Langley and Thatcher of Kentucky have urged him to appoint Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of their state and vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, while J. C. Schafer, Republican Representative-elect from Virginia, called the availability of Sloop to the President-elect for Secretary of the Interior.

When Hoover made a tour of inspection of the battleship Utah on his return journey from South America, Hoover, the engineer, put his finger on two difficulties of battleship construction, that have been troubling navy engineers for the last 20 years.

"Better ventilation is the thing you want, and watertight doors in the bulkheads," naval officers of the Utah say Hoover declared after inspecting the vessel.

UTILITIES SPENT FUNDS IN ALABAMA FOR PROPAGANDA

From $15,000 to $18,000 a Year Contributed, Head of Publicity Tells U. S. Trade Commission.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Resuming its investigation into publicity activities of public utility power companies, the Federal Trade Commission received today from Leon C. Bradley, former director of the Alabama Utility Information Bureau, testimony that he had surveyed Alabama school books, but had made no effort to change their references to public utilities.

In other hearings the text book phase has been gone into exhaustively and today Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the commission, questioned Bradley in detail on that point. Appearing as the first witness, Bradley testified the survey was made merely "to see what was being taught regarding public utilities, so I would know how to combat what was regarded as unfair to public utilities." He added that "nothing was ever done, however."

"Did you distribute or help to distribute pamphlets of your bureau in the schools of Alabama?" asked Healy.

"No, sir. We sent copies to the libraries of the State, one to each library."

Bradley said he did not know whether any of the pamphlets were used in any schools, and added that the bureau received for its support between $15,000 and $18,000 annually, provided by power companies.

The bureau, he said, was opened in March, 1923, and closed in May, 1926. He said it employed no special writers and declared he had not paid any money to newspapers.

Questioned further on a survey he made for the Alabama Power Co., Bradley testified that for three weeks he worked for the power company, interviewing "leading citizens of the towns receiving power." He declared the interviews were published in the Dothan (Ala.) Eagle in the news columns, not as paid advertising.

The stories were submitted on their merits," said the witness, adding that there was nothing in the articles to indicate who had written them.

Trained by Newspaper Man.
"But the Wire Grass Journal was opposed to the stories," said Bradley, "and they trailed me with a newspaper man, who checked up on the people I interviewed. They all told him just what they had told me and I had printed."

He declared that this affiliation with the Alabama Power Co. was the only employment he ever had in a power company during the time he was director of the bureau. Judge Healy introduced a letter written by Bradley to Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Co., in which he called Martin's attention to two editorials in the Birmingham News.

"I am constantly furnishing information and propaganda advantageous to the utilities," Healy read from the letter, "not only to newspapers and members of the Public Service Commission, but to other organizations as well."

"Upon questioning as to the nature of the news furnished papers by the bureau, the witness said that perhaps he had 'misused the word propaganda' in the letter."

AIDS TESTIFY SARGENT ACTED TO SAVE BURKE

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Testifying before the Senate Indian Affairs Committee, Department of Justice officials yesterday gave a detailed account of the means by which Charles H. Burke, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, blocked his own indictment by an Oklahoma grand jury last July for alleged participation in a criminal conspiracy to deprive Jackson Barnett, a wealthy but incompetent Indian, of his property.

The testimony disclosed that despite the fact that Attorney-General Sargent had known for a long time that Burke was to be indicted, he ordered the grand jury discharged. When doubtful subordinates asked him whether he had issued the instructions knowing that 100 witnesses had been called, the Attorney-General did not reply and his orders were carried out.

Assistant Attorney-General B. M. Parmenter, who has handled the Barnett civil cases in court, and his assistant, E. E. Danly, told the committee that they were prepared to submit evidence to the grand jury, scheduled to meet July 9, at Muskogee, which they thought would lead to the indictment and conviction of Burke, Mrs. Jackson Barnett; her attorney, Harold McGulgin of Coffeyville, Kan.; L. M. Mott, who had been associated with McGulgin, and A. J. Ward, attorney for the five civilized tribes.

Both testified that they were instructed the latter part of June by William D. Mitchell, solicitor of the Department of Justice and at the time acting Attorney-General, to discharge the grand jury and recall the subpoenas for approximately 100 witnesses after Mitchell had received word from Sargent to stop the case until the solicitor could make a personal investigation of Burke's part in the alleged conspiracy.

Mitchell, the first witness of the day, produced letters and telegrams showing that Burke had received a memorandum from Dr. Hubert Work, then Secretary of the Interior and now chairman of the Republican National Committee, asking him to intervene with Sargent, then on vacation in Vermont, to defer grand jury action.

Sargent issued the desired instructions to Mitchell by telephone. When Mitchell learned that 100 witnesses had been subpoenaed, he informed Sargent by letter of the fact and said that he would issue the instructions if he received no reply within the next two days. No answer came from Sargent, and the instructions were issued.

Mitchell told the committee that although he was requested last June to make a study of Burke's connection with the alleged conspirators, he had not found time to do so. He said he had promised the Attorney-General three weeks ago that he would have the report before March 4.

Among the documents submitted by Mitchell were the Burke memorandum to Work and Work's letter and telegram to Sargent. The telegram, dated June 28, read: "Indictment of Commissioner Burke in Oklahoma threatened. Please have it stopped. Mrs. Burke critically ill."

This telegram had been preceded by a letter, dated June 25, which transmitted the Burke memorandum. In this letter Work asked Sargent to give the matter his personal attention and to detail at once some one to investigate the case who had not heretofore been identified with it.

Burke Charges Plot.
In his memorandum Burke charged that his threatened indictment was the result of a plot devised by Senator W. B. Pine (Rep.) of Oklahoma, Parmenter and Charles S. Selby, Pine's former law partner, to get revenge because Burke had not named a Judge Hepburn superintendent of the five civilized tribes. Burke made the same charge before the committee at its meeting last Monday. As yet Senator Pine has made no reply.

After asking to be excused from questions concerning his conferences with Sargent and being instructed by the committee that he must answer, Parmenter testified that he had had two conferences with the Attorney-General at which he stated he had enough evidence to indict Burke with the other alleged conspirators. One of these conferences he said was "shortly before the Attorney-General went to Vermont," and the other in February, 1927. After the February conference, he submitted to Sargent a 149-page memorandum of the Barnett case, he said.

Parmenter denied that he had any ill-feeling toward Burke, asserting that he had talked with him only twice. He said that after investigating the Barnett case he told the Attorney-General he had uncovered such an amazing condition that it made cold shivers run up and down his back. He admitted that he had discussed the case with Senator Pine, who, he said, was responsible for his appointment, but that Pine had not urged prosecution of Burke.

"He did give me some advice which I shall never forget," he added. It developed that this advice was to the effect that right will eventually prevail.

Tells of Talking With Work.
Mitchell was closely cross-questioned by Senators Burton K. Wheeler and Robert M. La Follette. Wheeler elicited from the solicitor the statement that Work telephoned him the day he received the telephone instructions from Sargent to defer the grand jury investigation. He told Work, he said, that the grand jury investigation had been called off.

Apparently mindful of the fact that Work was then Herbert Hoover's campaign manager and might be interested in the Oklahoma vote, Wheeler asked, "Did Dr. Work mention politics when he talked with you?"

"Oh, he wouldn't talk politics with me; I am a Democrat," Mitchell replied.

"I wish there were more Democrats in the Department of Justice," Wheeler observed.

Mitchell testified that he could not remember whether he had instructed Parmenter that he might proceed against the other alleged conspirators provided he did not involve "any Government official." Evidence gathered by the committee's own investigator was to the effect that the civil suits involving Barnett's property were seriously embarrassed by this restriction. In a Kansas suit, the Government attorneys stated that "under the limitations you have imposed, we have drawn the best bill we are able."

There also was offered as evidence instructions from Mitchell telling the Government attorneys that the "spirit of the Attorney-General's instruction, if not the letter," was that evidence implying criminal conspiracy by Government officials should not be allowed in the civil suits.

Mitchell stated that both in the criminal and civil suits he hesitated to challenge the actions of a Government official who had the support of a superior who believed in his honesty and integrity.

Parmenter Reluctant to Answer.
Parmenter was reluctant in answering questions about Mitchell's testimony. His answers indicated, however, that he and Mitchell were not in accord regarding Burke.

"Did you get the impression from Mr. Mitchell that he was going to proceed with the case but to ask the grand jury to indict Commissioner Burke?" Wheeler asked.

"I wish you would not ask that," Parmenter replied. Mitchell is a good and able man and I'd rather not answer question."

He was excused and the Senate was stricken from the official record.

Danly's testimony merely stated that of Parmenter several points. He was employed that Mitchell wanted the Government to proceed against the alleged conspirators, provided Government officials were not involved.

Attorney-General Sargent, Dr. Work were expected before committee yesterday afternoon did not appear. Work was questioned as to what representations Burke made to him and what he communicated to Sargent.

DENIES SOLICITING $65,000 BRIBE FOR SUNDAY BASEBALL

Accused Boston Councilman Says President of Braves Was "Drunk or Crazy" at Interview.

"WANTED-TO PUNCH" FUCHS, HE ASSERTS

Boxing Manager Testifies Team Owner Invented Story to "Shake Down" Vice President of Club.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—City Councilman William G. Lynch made a complete denial before the Finance Commission today of the testimony of President Emil Fuchs of the Boston National League baseball club that he had sought a bribe of $5000 each for 13 members of the Council for passage of an order to permit Sunday baseball and other professional sports.

Telling of the conference with Fuchs at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Nov. 23, Lynch said that the Braves' president "opened up with as fine a blast as I ever heard in my life." He quoted Fuchs as telling him that "it looks like your political career is about ended if you go wrong on this Sunday sports bill."

Lynch told the Commission that he thought Fuchs "was either drunk or crazy." He said Fuchs accused him of leading a bloc of nine members of the Council in opposition to the bill and of seeking to make the Council unanimous against it.

"I lost my head," Lynch testified, "and leaped to my feet and was going to punch him."

Then, he said, Dan Carroll, a manager of professional boxers, who accompanied him at the conference, intervened, and Fuchs apologized to him.

Dan Carroll, manager of boxers and a truckman, testified yesterday that the charge that Lynch sought a bribe was invented by Fuchs, in order to "shake down" Charles P. Adams, vice president of the club, for $100,000.

Carroll quoted Fuchs as saying: "We had hard luck since I came here—I had $500,000 and now my stock in the Braves is in hock down at the Atlantic National."

Joseph P. Walsh asked if Carroll thought it was Fuchs' purpose in making the bribery charges "to hold up Adams because Fuchs was broke," and Carroll answered, "yes." Adams is a wealthy chain store owner and president of the Boston Bruins, a member of the National Hockey League, as well as vice president of the Braves.

The commission also heard Councilman Robert G. Wilson Jr., whom Adams had identified as the man he thought had called him on the telephone to say that the 13 Councilmen would hold up action on the sports ratification until the $65,000 had been paid.

Wilson made a sweeping denial of the charges and characterized Fuchs and Adams as "unprincipled, money mad and a pair of unscrupulous falsifiers."

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 10.—A man who said he was Alphonse Reilly, 21 years old, of St. Louis, shot and killed Abraham Sandelman, shoe store manager, on a crowded street in the business district here late yesterday.

Reilly, who said he recently had been released from Mare Island Navy Yard after having done time for desertion, told police he killed Sandelman because the latter refused to give him a pair of shoes.

Reilly said his parents lived on Holladay avenue, St. Louis.

Reilly is the son of Mrs. Cecelia Reilly, who in 1927 lived at 4823A Theodosia avenue. Police records show that the Navy Department posted a standing reward of $50 for Reilly's arrest on a charge of deserting from the U. S. S. Mullany at San Diego, Cal., on Nov. 9, 1926. Mrs. Reilly, who then lived at 2618 Slattery street, said she had not heard from her son since he enlisted in the navy two years prior. On March 12, 1927, the reward was withdrawn, indicating, according to police, that Reilly had been taken in custody somewhere else. Mrs. Reilly had still not heard from Reilly then.

TRUCK AND $10,000 IN GOODS STOLEN

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 10.—A truck load of merchandise valued at $10,000, on the way to Lawrence and Topeka, Kan., was stolen on the intercity viaduct here early today by four men, who kidnaped the driver and helper and escaped with the loaded truck. The truck was near the State line when the four men, in a small sedan, crowded it to the rail and jumped aboard. Fred Brown, driver, and Donald Maza, helper, were placed in the sedan. They were released later, after being taken north of Kansas City. The truck was owned by the E. F. Transport Co.

APPORTIONMENT FIGHT REOPENED IN HOUSE

Fenn Measure to Base Membership on 1930 Census Gets Right of Way.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The old controversy on the reapportionment of its 435 representatives today was reopened in the House. The proposal, which would realign the present House membership among the states on the basis of the 1930 census, found a sharp division of views, with party lines abandoned. A special rule provides legislative right-of-way for the bill, which is sponsored by Chairman Fenn of the Census Committee.

The bill would divide the representatives by the major fraction plan, which would result in the loss of about 23 representatives by some states and an equal gain by others, particularly those in the Middle and Far West where the population has increased greatly since 1910, the last time an apportionment was made on the basis of a population of 91,641,197.

It was estimated by the Census Committee that the population would be about 123,000,000 in 1930. The reapportionment would become effective following the Seventy-first Congress, and reapportionment would be made each fifth Congress thereafter.

Chairman Fenn expressed the belief that the measure had the best opportunity to pass of any similar bill submitted during the past decade, there having been one considered at each Congress since then.

Representative McLeod of Michigan, ranking Republican member of the Census Committee, was selected by a caucus of friends of the measure to lead their campaign, while Representative Rankin of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the same committee, heads the opposition.

Rankin and other opponents of the measure contend the bill is antithetical to legislative and declare reapportionment should be arranged after an accurate census is taken in 1930.

Palestine Conference Sunday. Rabbi A. E. Halpern and Dr. Samuel Thurman will be the speakers at 8 o'clock Sunday evening at a conference on Palestine, sponsored by the St. Louis Commission for United Palestine Appeal, to be held at the Y. M. H. A.

This Tobacco in Far Port

Buenos Aires, Argentine, Jan. 4, 1928

Larus & Bro. Co.

Richmond, Va., U. S. A.

Gentlemen:

I'm a seafarer, and as such of course travel quite a lot. Right now I am in the Argentine, and am glad to say that I can here purchase your beloved Edgeworth Tobacco, of which I'm so very fond.

It is indeed a pity that one can't find this good smoke in every place of the seven seas. While recently in Germany, my home-country, I tried in vain to come upon one of these little blue tins. I'm not saying too much in mentioning that I would outwalk that famous mile, hunting up dear Edgeworth. I dare say there is no other tobacco like it, and am convinced that Edgeworth cannot be improved.

Let me know when you contemplate ceasing to make Edgeworth so that I may lay in a goodly store to last till I'm seventy.

May Edgeworth never change!

I'll always remain

Sincerely yours,

Willie Schmiedes

The Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival Fund has no solicitors, and is not in any way connected with any collection of funds made by any local organization.

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will undoubtedly be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands as they are really the true marks of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

ESSEN WORKING TO BAR CANTLEY'S REAPPOINTMENT

Frank Millsaugh, Too, Is Active in Urging Charles H. Gilles for Finance Commissioner.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 10.—A fight of the Essen political interests in St. Louis County to prevent the reappointment of Governor-elect Caulfield of State Finance Commissioner S. L. Cantley, and an effort by Frank C. Millsaugh, deposed and discredited finance commissioner, to regain influence in the department became known this week when Millsaugh visited Jefferson City for a conference with Republican leaders.

The purpose is to attempt to block Cantley notwithstanding his almost unanimous endorsement by bankers of the State, and to attempt to bring about the appointment of Charles H. Gilles, now an examiner in the department, and a personal and political friend of Essen and Millsaugh.

While Cantley's retention has been expected, the strength of the political opposition to him is growing and powerful influences are working to depose him. Secretary of State Charles L. Becker, being in the background of the fight while there has been nothing so far to indicate that Becker is a party to the scheme to install Gilles in this job, it is known at the capital that he is opposing Cantley.

Why Becker Opposes Cantley. Becker's antagonism to the Finance Commissioner is due to Cantley's attitude toward Becker in the case of several failed banks in which Becker had deposited State automobile license funds. Becker attempted to obtain the cooperation of the Finance Department in having the deposits declared preferred and paid ahead of the deposits of others. Cantley refused, insisting the Secretary of State must take his chances along with the other depositors, a position in which he has been sustained by the courts.

Millsaugh, it will be recalled, was Finance Commissioner during a part of the Hyde administration, and was deposed by Gov. Baker early in 1925, following the Gorin bank scandal, as a result of which Millsaugh was indicted on charges of irregularities in connection with his official duties. He escaped trial through a technicality as the indictments containing flaws.

It was during his term that there was a riot of reckless expenditure of funds of failed banks in the payment of attorney fees, huge sums going to favored lawyers, particularly to T. E. Francis of St. Louis, who, it was shown in a Senate investigation, received nearly $200,000 through Millsaugh's friendship.

Gilles Stands High. Gilles was a Millsaugh favorite and received choice assignments. He was advanced from a $2400 a year examining job and placed in charge of disbursements of the Night and Day Bank and the Chippewa Bank in St. Louis, being paid $700 a month for the service. Gilles was retained in the department after Millsaugh's removal, and has been considered one of the most efficient examiners in the service.

It appears that Gilles is between the fires of ambition and of loyalty to his present chief. He has not become an open applicant for Cantley's position, but is known to be willing to accept it. One of his chief political friends said that Gilles was loyal to Cantley, and would not seek the job as long as Cantley was in the race. However, it was said, if it appeared Cantley would not be reappointed there would be no reason why Gilles should not seek the office.

In the meantime, Cantley's enemies and Gilles' friends are building up all the opposition they can to Cantley.

Millsaugh was particularly active when in Jefferson City, advocating a return to old conditions in the department.

SUIT ASKS FOR A RECEIVER FOR THE PROGRESSIVE LOAN CO.

Three Illinois Stockholders Charge Officers Mismanaged the Affairs of the Company.

Three Illinois stockholders of the Progressive Loan Co., 117 Franklin avenue, filed suit in Federal Court yesterday for the removal of the company officers, the appointment of a receiver and an accounting of the company funds.

They allege that the officers and directors of the company have mismanaged the affairs of the company. The petitioning stockholders are Helen Becker, Madison, Ill., A. Oser, also of Madison, and A. Shaffel, East St. Louis. The company is capitalized at $100,000.

The petition alleges that the officers of the company incurred a deficit of $22,250 previous to May, 1928. At that time the officers and directors employed Nathan Harris as general manager on his promise to put the business on a paying basis and to put new money into the concern by lending the capital without interest. According to the petition, Harris failed to do either of these things.

COMMANDER BYRD NAMES HARBOR FLOYD BENNETT

Explorer Plans Greater Rec-

Who Was to Have Been

BAY OF WHALES, Antarctica, Jan. 10.—Commander Byrd has named the harbor which he recently discovered and explored "Floyd Bennett Harbor" and the cape which marks the northern entrance of the harbor "Cape John Rodgers," after Commander Rodgers, Byrd's friend and one of the navy's first aviators, who gave his life to aviation.

The harbor lies on the Western side of the Bay of Whales, about a mile and a half south of Cape West. It is nearly two miles wide and seven miles deep and the center forms a perfect landing field which will be used by the planes only in case of emergency, as its distance from the main base, "Little America," is about six miles.

When naming the harbor today in memory of his shipmate, Floyd Bennett, the Commander intimated that if he gets into the unknown regions at a later date he probably would give to another of the new discoveries the name of the one who was to have been his co-leader on the antarctic expedition. Byrd now has 11 dog teams on the ice. Together with the men hauling, they are getting material to the base at the rate of five tons a day.

Floyd Bennett, who died of pneumonia last spring while on his way to the relief of the Bremen flyers on Greenland, would have been Byrd's chief pilot on the present expedition had he lived.

He flew with Byrd to the North Pole in 1926 and only a broken leg kept him from accompanying the commander on his trans-Atlantic flight. He suffered the broken leg when the plane America fell in a test flight, April 16, 1927. Bennett's body rests in Arlington Cemetery at Washington, where he received a hero's burial. He received the Congressional Medal of Honor shortly before his death.

Commander John Rodgers was in command of the PN-9, the navy flying boat which was forced down when attempting to fly from the California mainland to Hawaii in 1925. After drifting for several days in the disabled seaplane, Commander Rodgers and his crew were rescued and taken to Honolulu in triumph. He was fatally injured when a plane he was piloting fell into the Delaware River, Sept. 27, 1926.

WAR SECRETARY TELLS OF SCOTT FIELD FIGHT

Explains Why Funds Are Lacking to Carry on Building Program There.

An explanation of the lack of available funds to carry on a building program at Scott Field was made by Secretary of War Davis in a letter received today by the Chamber of Commerce.

A discontinuation of activities at the field has been discussed in connection with the proposed assumption by the navy of the army's balloon airship activities. The Chamber of Commerce has been active in a campaign to keep the field functioning as the largest lighter-than-air post in the United States. Secretary Davis recalled in his letter that in March, 1927, Congress approved construction of barracks and non-commissioned officers' quarters at the field at an estimated total cost of $250,000 and that the estimates were accepted by the Bureau of the Budget. The letter continues:

"The Senate in considering the War Department appropriation bill, fiscal year 1929, eliminated the funds contained for the barracks at Scott Field and inserted a proviso against all construction at that place. The bill containing the Senate amendment was approved by the President on March 22, 1928.

Sought Removal of Restriction
"The War Department in preparing its estimates for the fiscal year 1930, having in mind the congressional restriction noted in the preceding paragraph, requested the Bureau of the Budget to eliminate the aforementioned restrictive proviso in the bill for 1930 with a view to asking later for the appropriation of $250,000 previously authorized if the restrictive language were removed.

"This request of the War Department was approved by the Bureau of the Budget and the draft transmitted to Congress did not contain the restrictive proviso. In the War Department appropriation bill, fiscal year 1930, reported Jan. 3, 1929, the House Appropriations Committee reinserted the proviso that no funds be appropriated or authorized for Scott Field, and further, in its report on the bill stated: 'the Congress at the last session agreed to an amendment placed in the War Department appropriation bill in the Senate prohibiting expenditures for building construction at Scott Field.'

Cites Stand of Congress
"The question at issue rests in a determination of the proper scope and mission of the Air Corps with respect to the lighter-than-air activities. The Congress has taken a very definite stand in this connection, both last year and apparently this year."

Nevertheless, active proponents of a continuation of activities, including Congressman Cochran of St. Louis and Congressman Irwin of Belleville, see a partial victory in the report from Washington yesterday that the House had agreed to strike out the restrictive clause in current appropriations.

If this is carried out and approved by the Senate, construction work may proceed at the field. It is generally understood that even if the navy takes over lighter-than-air work from the army, the field will be continued as a naval station since its equipment represents expenditures in excess of $4,000,000, and it would not be used to its full value for any other purpose.

SEEKS INCREASED BUDGET
Joseph A. Serena to Appear Before Legislators' Committee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Jan. 10.—Joseph A. Serena, president of the Southeast Missouri Teachers' College, will appear before the appropriations committee of the Missouri Legislature to ask that an allowance for the college for the next biennial period larger than that recommended by the State Tax Commission, be made.

The commission suggested an appropriation of $48,500 for the college, which is $392 less than the appropriation received during the last two-year period. If the amount recommended is allotted, the college's plans for erecting a new library and museum will be dropped tentatively, according to the president.

COUNCIL OF SALVATION ARMY ASKS GEN. BOOTH TO RESIGN
Adopts Resolution Citing Leader's Poor Health; Proposes He Retain Title.

By the Associated Press.
SUNBURY-ON-THAMES, Jan. 10.—The high council of the Salvation Army today adopted a resolution asking Gen. Bramwell Booth, leader of the army for the last 16 years, to retire from that post because of the condition of his health.

At the same time it was made clear that in retirement he would retain his title of General and continue to enjoy the honor and dignities attached to it.

The resolution was made public in a communique issued from Sunbury Court this morning. It was adopted after the council had considered a letter dated Jan. 6 which had been received from the head of the army. The text of this letter was not given out, but it is understood that in it the General asked the high council to appoint a commission to act for him until his recovery.

SAYS HE CHANGES ROOSTERS INTO HENS, BUT NOT LAYERS

Chicago Scientist Reports He Effects Transformation by Transplanting Gland.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Dr. A. V. Domm of the University of Chicago announces he has found a way to change roosters into hens, but has been unable thus far to make them lay eggs.

Gland transplanting effected the transformation, Dr. Domm explained in his report of the experiments to the American Society of Zoologists. The experiments were conducted under the direction of Prof. Frank R. Lillie. Dr. Domm said his experiments not only change roosters into hens, but hens into roosters. The transformed hens became to all external appearances roosters, developing comb, plumage and spurs, the report stated. Operations were performed on 175 female chicks during the first 30 days after hatching. When they reached maturity, however, the male plumage disappeared and the customary female plumage reappeared. Otherwise, the transformation remained complete.

To guard against flu be careful to get lots of sleep with at least one window part open. Keep away from crowds, drink lots of water and eat only good wholesome food. And MOST IMPORTANT be sure to keep the bowels open. The best intestinal cleanser is the simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, saline compound, known as Adierika. This acts in ¼ to 2 hours on BOTH upper and lower bowels (most medicines act on lower bowels only.) Adierika often brings out foul matter which may have poisoned you for months and which you would never believe was in your system.

HAD TO GIVE UP WORK BECAUSE OF SEVERE CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

Had Rheumatism Twenty-Five Years and Gives Weldona Tablets Credit for Recovery
LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEER GIVES INTERVIEW

"I have had seventeen physicians and spent considerable time in hospitals for the cure of rheumatism, but nothing reached my case until I obtained Weldona tablets," said Mr. E. H. Lynn, who lives at 601

MR. E. H. LYNN.

West Oak Street, Carbondale, Ill. Mr. Lynn continued: "I am sixty years of age, and have been a locomotive engineer on the Illinois Central R. R. for more than thirty-eight years, but had to give up my position because of rheumatism. My legs, arm, shoulder, back and hips were sore and painful. It was almost impossible for me to get up from my chair because of pain and stiffness of the joints. 'I could not get my right arm to my head to comb my hair or put my coat on. My hands were weak and numb, and I could not hold even small articles. My back was stiff and it was almost impossible for me to lace my shoes. 'I learned about the good work Weldona tablets were doing for rheumatism in St. Louis and immediately started to take them. I must say Weldona tablets have done more for me in three weeks than everything else I have tried in twenty-five years. The pain and stiffness has left me and I can get my hand to my head. My fingers are normal and I can hold on to anything I grasp. I certainly appreciate the benefit I have received from Weldona tablets, and anyone may write or call on me for further information.

Weldona tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Ask for Weldona tablets, which are recommended for rheumatism and rheumatic conditions only. Weldona tablets are absolutely harmless and will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ.

The Weldona representative who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Av., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page book, entitled "Germ of Rheumatism," which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit-forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person.

PERHAPS YOU CAN'T AVOID CROWDS BUT YOU CAN HELP AVOID INFLUENZA

To keep free from influenza the Surgeon General warns against mingling with crowds, especially against coming in direct contact with persons who are coughing or sneezing. Walk to work if possible—the exercise will do you good. Do not use unsterilized towels or napkins. Keep your hands away from the mouth and face. Wash them regularly before each meal. Use plenty of fresh water inside and out.

The frequent and continued use of Vapex has become the standby of many whose common sense tells them to take all proper precautionary measures. Vapex will keep you free from colds and will stop a cold at the start. It is used widely by those who must ride in the subway, the buses, etc. Put a drop on your handkerchief—breathe the vapor. The odor is pleasant. Use it frequently, especially while in crowded places. This ounce of prevention may save you many days of serious illness. Get Vapex from your druggist in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle.

ROCKEFELLER JR. SEEKS TO OUST R. W. STEWART

Writes Stockholders of Standard of Indiana Asking for Proxies for This Purpose.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. has sent letters to stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana seeking their proxies for the annual meeting of the company in March to oppose the re-election of Col. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board, it is learned today.

Rockefeller requested the resignation of Stewart after he was charged with perjury in connection with his statements to the Senate Teapot Dome Committee. Stewart declined to resign, and was acquitted of the charge Nov. 20.

In his letter to stockholders, Rockefeller outlines his letter to Col. Stewart which sought his resignation last year, and adds "definite assurance have already been given me by stockholders representing a substantial amount of stock of the company that they are opposed to Col. Stewart's re-election."

The text of Rockefeller's letter follows:

"At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana to be held March 7, 1929, members of the Board of Directors to serve until the annual meeting in 1930 will be elected. I understand that Col. Robert W. Stewart, now a member of the board and its chairman, will be a candidate for re-election.

"On April 27, 1928, I wrote Col. Stewart as follows: 'Your recent testimony before the Senate committee leaves me no alternative other than to ask you to make good the promise you voluntarily gave me some weeks ago that you would resign at my request. That request I now make.'

"At the same time I stated publicly that this letter had been written because of my loss of confidence in Col. Stewart's leadership and my belief that the interests of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana would best be served by his resignation. More than eight months have passed and Col. Stewart has not replied to my letter. I am therefore asking the stockholders of the company to join me in opposing his re-election.

"Can Do Without Stewart."

"Under the loyal and devoted leadership of the president of the company, Mr. E. G. Subert who has been with the company for more than 30 years, backed by the whole-hearted support of the other members of the board, most of whom have also been connected with the company for many years, the interests of the company will be fully protected and its business well handled without Col. Stewart.

"Definite assurance has already been given me by stockholders representing a substantial amount of the stock of the company that they are opposed to Col. Stewart's re-election. If this is your position, please sign the enclosed proxy running to John D. Rockefeller Jr., Winthrop W. Aldrich and or William Roberts, and send it promptly to Mr. Lyman Rhoades, in care of the Equitable Trust Co., 11 Broad street, New York City, in the enclosed stamped envelope. This proxy will automatically supersede any other proxy you may have already given for this meeting. It will be voted for the purpose of terminating Col. Stewart's connection with the company, and, insofar as may be compatible with that result, for the re-election of all of the present directors except Col. Stewart."

A postscript pointed out that the proxy also covers any other meeting which may be held in 1929 for the election or removal of directors.

Testifying before the Senate Teapot Dome Committee Feb. 11, 1928, Rockefeller said that of $150,000 common shares of the company's stock outstanding, he owned personally 402,250 shares, while the Rockefeller Foundation owned 460,760 shares, and the University of Chicago 20,000 shares. In addition, he said, there were a little over 500,000 shares held in trusts set up for his two sisters. The total holdings of the Rockefeller interests were given as slightly less than 15 per cent of the stock outstanding.

Stewart Ignored Demand.

Rockefeller first asked for Stewart's resignation May 9 of last year. Feb. 9 Rockefeller sent a telegram to United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh reporting that in a personal conversation Stewart had told him nothing could change his position in regard to the Teapot Dome inquiry and that any time the stockholders wanted his resignation they could have it.

When Rockefeller asked for Stewart's resignation it was said that Wall street viewed the action as the first test of the strength of the Rockefeller interests since the dissolution of the Rockefeller trust in 1911.

June 24 of last year a statement from the Rockefeller office reported that the Rockefeller interests had been disposing of their holdings in Standard Oil of Indiana and that John D. Rockefeller Jr. had not changed his position in regard to his request that Stewart resign as chairman of the board.

July 25 the New York World said that Stewart had checkmated Rockefeller's efforts to force him out and according to unimpeachable informants had cornered $1 per cent of the stock of the $500,000,000 oil corporation.

Rockefeller is now on his way to Egypt.

To Deport Rockefeller Employee. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 10.—A Swedish alien who said he enjoyed working for John D. Rockefeller Sr., so much that he decided to stay in this country regardless of the immigration regulations, was arrested yesterday. At the case, Rockefeller's winter home at Ormond Beach, Archard Aagreen, was employed as an odd job man. Immigration agents arrested him there after searching since 1927, where they told him he must go back to Sweden.

DROVE ALL NIGHT WITH SLAIN MAN IN SEAT

Kingsville, Mo., Farmer Arrested on Charge of Killing Neighbor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISONVILLE, Mo., Jan. 10.—An all-night ride with a slain man in the back seat of an automobile was ended today when Prentiss Bullard, 25-year-old Kingsville, Mo., farmer, was captured and taken to the Johnson County jail at Warrensburg. The slain man was Clay Branch, 33 years old, Bullard's neighbor.

The search for Bullard was begun last night when F. W. Walker, also of Kingsville, said he had seen Bullard shoot and kill Branch after an altercation a mile and a half east of Lone Jack, in Jackson County, yesterday afternoon. Walker, already in jail here, was taken to Warrensburg and held as a material witness.

The body of Branch was found buried in hay on the farm of Bullard. Bullard was found in bed after the body had been discovered in the barn. Admitting the killing, Bullard pleaded self defense.

Walker said he, Bullard and Branch went to Kansas City Tuesday, spent the night there and started back to Kingsville yesterday morning. They had luncheon at Knobtown. Bullard and Branch were in the rear seat, Walker said. He heard them quarreling but paid little attention to them. Once Bullard remarked: "I've spilled the beans." A mile and a half east of Lone Jack the distributor on the motor failed to function, and Walker got out to fix it. Bullard and Branch also left the car.

Walker said the two started to quarrel, and when they returned to the car Bullard told Branch he had better sit in front. A moment later, after the car had started, Walker said he heard a shot fired, and Branch's head dropped. Bullard was holding a revolver, he said, and fired another shot. Walker tried to leave the car but Bullard threatened to shoot him. Walker was so greatly excited he drove into a snowbank and stalled the car. A truck driver from Holden, Mo., whose name has not been learned, drove up and asked if they needed help. Walker said Bullard made him get out and tell the driver to move on.

"I told the driver," Walker said, "that there had been a murder, and if he stayed around both he and I would get it, too. He drove away in a hurry."

Bullard suggested, according to Walker, that they throw the body into the Missouri River at Lexington. Walker urged that they go instead to Harrisonville, which he said they did. At Harrisonville, Walker said, he left the car and went into his father's poultry house on a pretext, and Bullard drove away. Walker then reported the murder and was placed in jail.

Branch, a World War veteran, was the son of Mrs. Mary Branch, a widow living a mile west of Kingsville. Bullard was a tenant on one of Mrs. Branch's farms.

STOLEN EMBASSY DOCUMENTS GOT FROM G. B. BAKER

Newspaper Man Turned Over to State Department 200 Papers Taken From Mexico City Legation.

SECRET TESTIMONY IS MADE PUBLIC

Writer, Who Accompanied Hoover on Recent Tour, Denies He Brought Them Into U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Publication today of the testimony taken at hearings of the Senate Committee which investigated Mexican and Russian forged documents disclosed testimony that more than 200 documents stolen from the United States Embassy in Mexico City were obtained some time ago by the State Department from George B. Baker, a newspaper man. The testimony, heard in secret session, was given by Arthur Bliss Lane, chief of the Division of Mexican Affairs in the State Department, under questioning by members of the committee.

Lane said that Baker had insisted that he had not brought the documents from Mexico, and when Senator Johnson (Rep., Calif.), asked if it had not "required a considerable effort on the part of the State Department to obtain them," Lane said that was his understanding. Senator Johnson said he understood "they obtained these documents from Baker in a rather subtle fashion."

In reply to a question by Senator Dyer (Dem.), Maryland, Lane testified Baker as having accompanied Herbert Hoover to South America, "acting as a sort of liaison officer between Hoover and the State Department."

Lane added that Baker had no connection with Hoover at the time of the seizure of the Embassy papers. "200 Genuine, 50 Spurious," Lane testified that of the batch of documents in the possession of the State Department more than 200 were genuine and about 50 spurious. These documents had no connection with the forged documents published last year in the United States newspaper, purporting to be payments by the Mexican government to four United States senators.

"I do not know how they came into this country," Lane said. "But they came into the country from Mexican sources apparently. These documents purported to be payments from the files of the American embassy, while the documents that your committee was investigating last year purported to come from Mexican files."

Johnson asked how the documents came into the possession of Baker. "I do not know how they came into his hands," Lane said. "I know that Baker went to Mexico and arranged to have them come into his hands, but he denied having brought them into this country."

Among the documents obtained by the Senate committee is one stating that a credit on the Russian government is available in Paris by Lee, operator of a New York publicity service, who has written a book on Russia.

Senator Reed (Rep., Penn.), chairman of the committee, was quoted in the recent secret hearing of the committee as stating that two typewritten pages, purporting to be communications from former Russian Ambassador in Paris, were placed in his possession.

Ivy Lee Mentioned. One of these addressed to "Mr. Reed" was a Chamberlain's note for North Europe in Paris. "Please pay to Mr. Ivy Lee, the person duly authorized by me, the amount indicated to cover his expenses, contemporated by special account of Narkomine, N. 262 M. W."

At the same time notify Mr. Reed that there has been put in his disposal a complementary credit provided for by his arrangement with Moscow.

These complementary credits, the increase in the normal amount of the periodical payments would also be put to the special account of Narkomine N. 262 M. W.

Senator Dyer, in a question, asked that this Government steps through the Russian government to identify the forger of the documents purporting to be receipts by him of $100,000 from the Soviet government, made by Senator Dyer or the State Department.

The testimony given by Senator Johnson and Senator Norris of Nebraska, who was named also in the forged Russian papers as the recipient of $100,000 from Russia, was made public today by the committee and disclosed Dyer's statement. The committee after declaring the papers "false and spurious."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Public testimony of the testimony taken at hearings of the Senate Committee investigating Mexican and Russian forged documents disclosed testimony that more than 200 documents stolen from the United States Embassy in Mexico City were turned some time ago by the State Department from George B. Senator Johnson said that he understood that Baker had obtained these documents from Baker in a rather "secret fashion."

In reply to a question by Senator (Dem.), Maryland, Lane said that Baker, who had accompanied Herbert Hoover to South America, "acting as a sort of interpreter between Hoover and the State Department."

Lane added that Baker had no connection with Hoover at the time of the seizure of the Embassy papers, and that the documents were not published last year in the newspaper, purporting to be the property of the Mexican government to four United States citizens.

"I do not know how they came into this country," Lane said, "but they came into the country from Mexican sources apparently. Among the documents obtained by the Senate committee is one which bears a credit on the Russian government for the purchase of a book on Russia.

Senator Reed (Rep., Penn.) chairman of the committee, stated in the recent secret session of the committee as stating that the typewritten pages purporting to be communications from the former Russian Ambassador in Paris, were placed in his possession.

Utilities Commission Denies Public Service Company's Statement in Advertisement

Made No Finding of Value of the Company's Securities—The Facts as to the Issue Price of the Common Stock.

The St. Louis Public Service Co., which owns the local street car system, complains in an advertisement that the Post-Dispatch is in error in saying the company's common stock was "issued at $12.50 per share," and says the "value" attributable to each share of common stock "has been found by the Missouri Public Service Commission to be approximately $31 a share."

As to the second statement, when it was called to the attention of Chairman Ing of the Missouri Public Service Commission, he said, "We never have made such a finding. We find a fair value of a public utility company's property if a valuation or rate case is brought before the Commission, but we are not concerned with the value of the securities."

As to the issue price of the stock, the facts, which the Post-Dispatch has repeatedly printed heretofore, are as follows:

Stock Had No Equity. The United Railways Co. was adjudged insolvent and thrown into receivership in 1919. The company at that time was under the weight of bonded and other secured obligations in the sum of $55,910,042. The valuation of the property fixed by the Missouri Public Service Commission at that time was only $33,620,053.

The company had outstanding in addition to the secured obligations, 5 per cent preferred stock of a par value of $16,383,000, and common stock of a par value of $24,913,000. No dividend had ever been paid on the common stock and none on the preferred stock since 1910. Since the secured debts of the company exceeded the value of its property by nearly $1,500,000, neither the preferred nor common stock, which was unsecured, had any equity in the property when the company was adjudged insolvent and a receiver appointed.

The receivership was eventually terminated and the Federal Circuit Court ordered the property sold at public auction and set the minimum acceptable price at $43,931,000.

Securities Used in Deal. The Public Service Co., the only bidder, bought the property, and by this proceeding the old United Railways Co. was dissolved and all claims against it extinguished. However, it was not a cash transaction. The new company paid for the property with securities in the new corporation and part cash, an arrangement which had previously been agreed upon by the parties concerned and approved in advance by the court.

On the day of the sale, Aug. 1, 1927, there were outstanding against the old company the following bonds:

St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. (Gen. Sec.)	2,000,000
St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. (1st Gen. Mortgage)	36,300,000
St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. (2d Gen. Mortgage)	4,500,000
St. Louis Transit Co. (5%)	9,700,000
Total	$52,500,000

"These obligations were disposed of as follows:
St. Louis & Suburban Consolidated; paid in cash at face value and interest.
United Railways First General Mortgage; assumed by new company.
St. Louis & Suburban Consolidated; paid for each $1000 bond $300 cash and interest and five and one-half shares of new $1 dividend preferred stock, an aggregate value of $530.

Stock Purchase Rights. The holders of preferred and common stock in the old company received no securities in the new company. However, they were of the committee. "I feel that if the Russian Government through our own Government were called upon to do so, they would run this matter down and find out who was guilty of the forgery. Otherwise the man attempted to be involved is rather helpless."

"Here is a document that turns up, with a signature to it which upon its face would seem to be a true signature, which has been well imitated, and it is supposed to be a copy of a document now in the possession of the Russian embassy at Paris or some place in the possession of that Government, and I feel that my Government owes it to me to clear it up, and I believe that it could be cleared up. I feel that they could get to the bottom of it and that it should rest upon the statement of the man whose name has been used."

Baker Says He Was Influential in Having Papers Sent to U. S.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—George Barr Baker, former newspaper man, today denied that he had brought into this country from Mexico the forged documents that were the subject of an investigation by a Senate committee.

"I did not bring those documents into this country," said Baker, "and I was influential in having them sent into this country to an agency

Corrections of Errors Appearing in the Post-Dispatch

The Post-Dispatch on last Saturday saw fit to prophesy that by next July 1 the common stock of St. Louis Public Service Co. will have earned $2.93 a share for the year then ended.

The newspaper concludes: "The rate of earnings thus indicated would be equivalent to 23.4 per cent on the price of $12.50 a share at which the company's common stock was issued."

The Post-Dispatch has repeatedly used $12.50 as the issue price of the common stock of this company that a correction seems necessary.

The fact is that no share of common stock ever was issued for $12.50. The stock of the new company was issued by it to purchase the property of the company. Each stockholder who acquired the stock of the new company, paid for it by contributing his proportionate ownership in the property, and, in addition, a cash assessment to reduce the indebtedness against the property. The value attributable to each share of common stock of this company has been found by the Missouri Public Service Commission to be approximately $31 per share.

Consequently, $2.93 would be no such earning as 23.4 per cent on the common stock and the statement of the Post-Dispatch is erroneous and misleading.

This company publishes in newspapers monthly statements to inform the public of its true condition. It will continue to publish these statements, and on next July 1 the public will be informed accurately of the earnings for the one-year period estimated by the Post-Dispatch.

Meanwhile, any other statement of earnings as of that date is mere conjecture.

ST. LOUIS PUBLIC SERVICE CO.

given the right to subscribe for certain amounts of Public Service Co. common stock "at $12.50 cash per share," as stated in the Plan of Reorganization printed and circulated by the new company, and the Transit bond holders were permitted to subscribe for 10 shares at $12.50 per share for each bond held.

The new common stock was issued as follows: To Transit bond holders, $4,130 shares; to preferred stockholders, 247,395 shares; to old common stockholders, 12,025 shares, a total of 243,525 shares for which the new company was paid $12.50 for each share, a total of $3,044,062.50.

The United Railways preferred stock was originally sold at around $90, but steadily declined on the market, and after 1910, when the dividend was stopped, it could be bought for a few dollars a share.

Bonds 60 Cents on the Dollar. After the reorganization plan was adopted, those on the inside bought a lot of this preferred stock to add them in securing enough of the new common to control the new company. They also bought old Transit 5 per cent bonds, for which they paid from 50 to 60 cents on the dollar for the same purpose.

The United Railways common stock never had any value and almost the entire issue, which was owned by the North American Co., was carried on the company's books at a value of $1.

of this Government for the express purpose of being turned over to this Government. They were not in my possession. No effort was required to have them turned over to the Government because the only interest I had in them was in getting them to our Government when I had learned of their existence."

Lee Denies Getting Money From Soviet Government. Mention of the name of Ivy Lee, New York publicity man, in connection with the Senate Committee's investigation of spurious documents, brought from Lee the statement that any report that he had ever received a penny of money from the soviet government, directly or indirectly is a complete fabrication.

Would Alter Army Promotion Plan. WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Immediate passage of a bill to revise the officer promotion system of the army was urged today on the Senate Military Committee by Secretary Davis, who recommended that the Government because the plan of promotion be based on length of service in grade and that other matters be left for consideration in subsequent legislation. "The most serious question is of the utmost consequence to all of our national defense," Davis said. "Agitation, disagreement and discontent have resulted from long consideration of this subject."

SALARY INCREASE BILL DEFEATED BY MISSOURI HOUSE

Gov. Elect Caulfield's Opposition to Measure Caused It to Be Rejected, 71 to 46.

RURAL LEGISLATORS HOSTILE TO PLAN

Way Left Open for Consideration, but Such Action Is Unlikely — Debate Is Brief.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 10.—The rush to get the bill increasing the salaries of elective State officials through the Legislature and signed by Gov. Baker before the new State officials assume office Monday, so they could receive the increases during their terms, ended abruptly last yesterday, when the House defeated the measure by a crushing margin.

The vote was Yes 48 and No 71, with 33 absent. The favorable vote was 30 less than the number required to pass a bill in the House and was 54 less than the 100 votes required to approve an emergency clause to the bill, without which it could not apply to the State officials-elect during their terms of office.

Caulfield Against Bill. Defeat of the bill, previously passed in the Senate, was due chiefly to a statement taken by Governor-elect Caulfield that he did not want the increase to apply to him during his term. Opposition of numerous rural members of the House who invariably are hostile to any increase in State salaries except those of Legislators, also contributed to the decisive defeat of the bill.

The bill proposed to fix the salary of the Governor at $12,000 a year, and the salaries of the Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer, Attorney-General and State Superintendent of Schools at $7500 a year.

The present base salary of the Governor is $5000 a year, and the base salary of the other officials is $3000 a year. Extra fees provided for service on various State boards, provided from time to time to augment the pay of the officials, added from $2500 to $2700 a year to the salaries of each, with the exception of the Superintendent of Schools, who receives $2000 a year in extra fees.

Way Open for Reconsideration. Representative W. P. Elmer of Dent County, a supporter of the bill, changed his vote from yes to no before the final vote was announced, which placed him in a position to support reconsideration of the vote within the three days allowed for such procedure by the House rules.

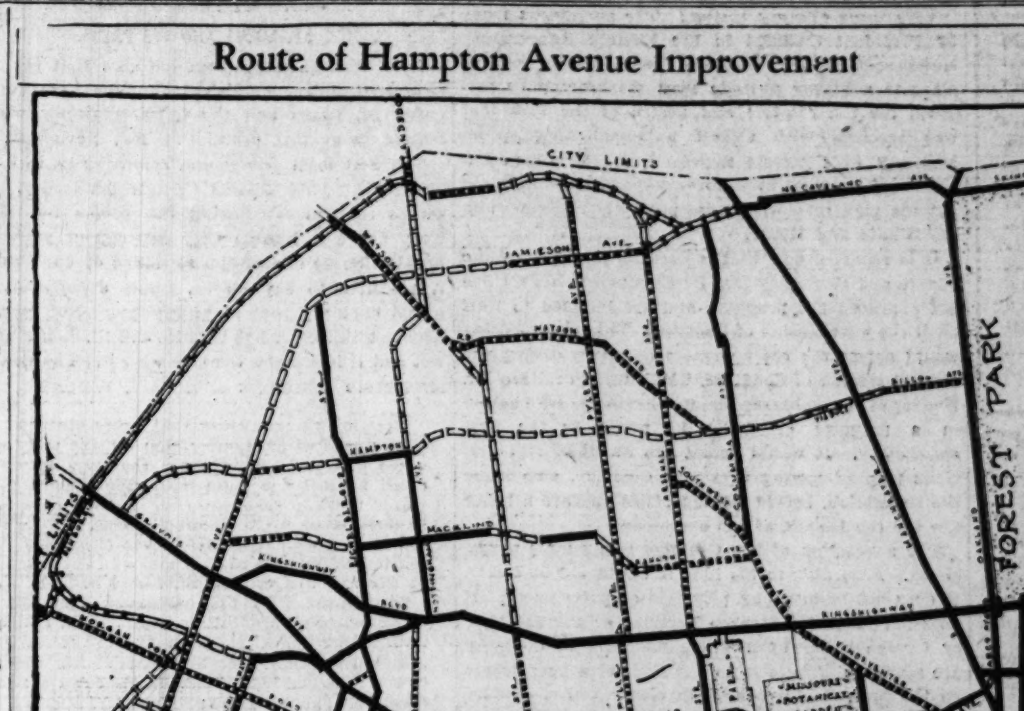

Elmer said it virtually was hopeless to seek passage of the bill again in its original form, if the House should reconsider, but said votes might be won over if the salary schedule was reduced somewhat. Other House leaders expressed the view the bill was dead and said the move to reconsider probably would be little more than a gesture.

Opponents of the bill sought to scale down the proposed salaries as soon as the bill came up for passage in the House. Representative William Job proposed an amendment giving the Governor $10,000 a year and the other officials $5000. The House rejected it and also defeated an amendment proposed by Representative O. B. Whitaker of Hickory County, giving the Governor $7000 and the other officials $5500.

The House did adopt an amendment to increase the Lieutenant Governor's salary from $1000 to $2000, and approved several amendments affecting the form of the bill.

Debate on the bill was brief. Whitaker, who recently lost his voice, prepared a memorandum opposing the measure and declaring the present salaries were "comfortable ones," which was read by the clerk. The House members apparently had made up their minds what to do with the bill and lost little time in disposing of it.

Caulfield Cites Opposition. Caulfield's position on the bill, expressed in a letter to Senator Ralphs, minority floor leader in the Senate, was that he was elected on the basis of the present compensation and did not want the proposed increase to apply to him. He also expressed doubt that an emergency clause would be valid, on the ground the bill was not of the class contemplated by the Constitution in authorizing emergency clauses on bills affecting the public peace, health and safety. Such a clause makes a bill effective immediately upon signature by the Governor. Without such a clause a bill does not become effective until 90 days after adjournment of the Legislature. The Constitution prohibits any increase in salary for an elective official during the term for which he was elected.

Nobile Says He Gave Aid To Rescuers by Leaving Ice Floe Before His Men

Justifying His Course and Answering Critics, Explorer Asserts Accusations Are Infamous and Villainous.

In the preceding installment of his dramatic narrative of his rescue from the Arctic ice, following the disaster to the dirigible Italia last May 25, Gen. Nobile told yesterday how he was taken by Lieut. Lundborg, a Swedish aviator, from their flying rescue depot to the Citta di Milano, his base ship, which had steamed to Virgo Bay.

There Nobile learned for the first time of the criticism that was already directed against him because he had been the first to leave his group of surviving comrades in the "red tent" party marooned on the ice pack. He told of his amazement and bitterness that his course should have been assailed and of his anguished thoughts of his suffering comrades, after Lundborg's plane had capsize on the ice, delaying the rescue work.

Gen. Nobile reflects this frame of mind as he now concludes his narrative and his defense of his course, which provoked a worldwide controversy.

By GEN. UMBERTO NOBILE, Commander-in-Chief of the North Pole Expedition Aboard the Dirigible Italia Last Summer. (Copyright, 1929.)

ROME, Jan. 9.—In those sad days I had an intuition of only a part of the truth. It was only later when I was able to read the first foreign newspapers that I had a completely clear idea of the abject speculation made on the accident to Lundborg.

Nobile had abandoned his companions: Before the infamous accusation, I withdrew within myself.

I disdained to explain. The others would have defended me, if they wished; if they thought it necessary. In regard to myself, the calamity was too vile for me to lower myself to defend myself.

Also a great bitterness flared up. Of what avail, therefore, to have flown 171 hours from Rome to the North Pole; to Teller, Alaska, facing a thousand unmeasurable risks, many of which were not even foreseen, and overcoming a thousand adversities; to have saved the unknown for the first time; to have wished to face it again a second time even knowing the risks?

Considers Efforts in Vain. Of what avail to have broken every tie with the world, with my own family; of what avail to have started for even new flights with the soul of one who admits the great probability of never returning?

Of what avail to have flown for 250 hours from Rome to Kings Bay, from Kings Bay to Nicholas II Land, to Greenland, to the Pole; of what avail to have faced and braved a hundred times the danger of a catastrophe without raising an eyebrow; of what avail, therefore, to have flown for 421 hours, to support the responsibility, fatigue and the burden of an arduous command for the search of the secret of those deserted wildernesses of ice?

Of what avail to have seen the dirigible "fall—one's own creature—and with the dirigible all one's own hopes, all one's past, all one's future, without the slightest contraction of a muscle; of what avail to have found the strength to smile, to encourage one's own companions even in the solemn instant when death seemed imminent?

Italy His Primary Thought. Of what avail to have found in those supreme moments in which it is not possible to lie, in which man is nude before God, in which

PLANS FOR HAMPTON VIADUCT TAKE SHAPE

Move Afoot to Assess Part of Cost Against Benefited Property.

Part of the cost of the proposed long viaduct to carry Hampton avenue across the River des Peres, the Frisco and Missouri Pacific railroad tracks and Manchester avenue may be assessed against benefited property owners in the neighborhood, if the rapid transit enabling act to be submitted to the Legislature is passed. The act specifically covers elevated streets to aid the speedy movement of traffic.

City Counselor Muench said today that the viaduct could be considered in this category. The remainder of the cost would be borne by the city and the two railroads, or they would bear it altogether, if the benefit assessments were not made. The cost is estimated at $408,000 by city engineers. The city has no funds set aside for this bridge now, but might divert some from the grade crossing bond issue which it had intended to use on other projects.

Negotiations with the railroads over the viaduct plan will be started soon, it is announced by President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, who declares that Hampton avenue, thus made a block street without hazard, will be an important artery in the development of the southwestern part of the city.

There is no grade crossing for Hampton at present, but the city is considering the elimination of the Knox avenue grade crossing, a block west. The thoroughfare formerly was designated "Hampton-Billon" utilizing Billon avenue between Manchester and Oakland avenues, but Billon's name is to be changed to Hampton.

The viaduct, of concrete, would be 1200 feet long, with its ends

REPARATIONS BODY ANNOUNCES ALL BUT U. S. EXPERTS

Commission Had Delayed Statement in Hope That Washington Nominations Would Arrive.

YOUNG TO HEAD AMERICAN GROUP

He Is Said to Have Agreed and to Be Acceptable to Both Berlin and the Allies.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The Reparations Commission late today announced the names of all but the American experts who will serve on a committee to revise the Dawes plan. The commission had delayed the announcement in the hope of receiving the official American nominations from Washington. The American experts will be appointed at a later session.

The following names were announced: Germany, Dr. H. J. M. Schacht and Dr. Albert Voegler; France, Emile Moreau and Jean V. Farminter; England, Sir Joseph C. Stamp and Lord Revelstoke; Italy, Dr. Alberto Pirrelli and Signor Silvich; Belgium, Emil Franquait and N. Gut; Japan, Togo Mori and M. Aoki.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT, Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. (Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publishing Co., the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Owen D. Young, co-author of the Dawes plan and chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., has agreed to act as principal American expert on the committee which will attempt to make a final settlement of the reparations problem. It was reported here yesterday, and his formal nomination to the post will take place today. His choice has been urged both by the allies, through the Reparations Commission, and by Germany.

He will, in fact, be the only really independent economist on the committee, as all the others have been chosen by their Governments, which, in effect, removes their independence.

Young, not only because of his personal independence of character, but also because of the leading role he played on the Dawes Committee and on account of the fact that he was actually chosen by five allied countries, will be in the position of arbiter in the settlement of Europe's greatest post-war problem.

Cociliation His Task. His task will be to conciliate all others, and as the limits of a possible compromise are already apparent, he will undoubtedly fix the terms of an equitable settlement almost by himself. At least he will have to bring all other members of the Committee together to agree on a compromise.

The Reparations Commission expects the work of the experts to all at the depth of the soul is revealed, and men fall to have in that moment but one passion and one cry to express it: "Viva L'Italia!"

NOBILE SAYS HE AIDED RESCUERS BY LEAVING BEFORE MEN

Of what avail to have for 50 unending days kept up the spirits of my companions, to have depended on the moments of greatest desperation, to have comforted them, to have even encouraged them to go and leave me alone there in the midst of the frozen desert, at the mercy of the ice, along with my wounded companions?

Of what avail to have consecrated all the energies of one's own spirit to one's companions: of what avail all this if, now profiting by Lundborg's accident, some who waited in ambush as with a pointed gun for a good moment to fire, dared to launch such an infamous accusation against me? What villainy! And to say that to remain here was so simple and easy for me.

It was so easy to stay there waiting for some one to come and get me!

Thought It Duty to Go.

I said one day to some one that at that moment when I decided to leave two hours before my companions, never for an instant did I think that any one could criticize my action, but even if I had had such a suspicion, I should have left all the same, deeming it my duty. I confess, however, that in the case only would I have categorically refused to give in to sentiment rather than obey my conscience, that is, if I had foreseen the probability of an accident happening to Lundborg on his return. I should then have lacked the courage to leave. Too grave was the sacrifice to remain separated from my companions.

Some even tried to compare me with the captain of a wrecked ship who abandons his post of command only at the last, after having done all that was possible to save the crew. Naturally, during the wreck of the Italia I took the most dangerous place, which was the cause of my being the most seriously wounded, but, alas, after the fall, the airship was no more, because it had flown away leaving us isolated on the ice.

Disabled in Loss of Craft.

Suppose that in some strange case a ship struck on a rock throwing out the Captain and some of the officers. Suppose still that afterward the tempest dispersed the ship so that its fate is unknown, as well as that of the remaining crew. Suppose, to continue the unlikely case, that the Captain is gravely wounded; he has a broken arm and leg; he is unable to move. With his calm, with his faith, with his serenity of mind and moral support for his companions, nevertheless, he can be only a very grave preoccupation for them.

Fortunately, in this wounded commander his intelligence is clear; his brain works even if his body is paralyzed. He perceives, or at least he thinks, that those who are directing the operations of rescue from afar do not take the situation into account, do not act as he would like, do not do, according to his opinion, all that could be done to search for the other lost companions on the ship, and he better than any other knows how it should be done, better than any other he would be able to devote himself with all the strength of his nature to the search.

Leader Necessary for Search.

Though his wounds render him incapable of moving and acting himself, he can, however, examine, advise, direct; he knows all this well. And on the day in which a boat succeeds in finding and approaching the rock to take the shipwrecked men to safety one by one, the Captain indicates another wounded to be taken away first but the rescuing Captain refuses on account of the load and insists that he should go, because he is useful, he is necessary, for the search of his companions.

Later the boat will return lighter and will take the other wounded man and the rest. The wounded commander understands the necessity, the duty of consenting and leaving before his companions, who would in a very short time rejoice him.

He said one and for all: As head, my post of command was there on board the Citta di Milano, to direct the operations of rescue, and not on the ice where my wounds not only prevented my assisting my companions in any way whatever, but constituted a burden and a danger for them.

Conscience Bids Him Go.

After all my having consented to be taken first by Lundborg—who asserted having received this order—and who, moreover, having the precise order of taking the wounded first, could not begin with Cecconi—was a thing which concerned only my own conscience and feelings.

The spectators, those who, without running any of the mortal risks of Lundborg, read the newspapers, could find the decision of Lundborg and me more or less sympathetic, more or less beautiful from a theatrical point of view, but they had no right to demand explanations.

Down there on the ice were six men, two wounded and four well, waiting to be rescued. The rescuer, who ran the greatest risk, was real arbiter of the choice of the order in which they should be rescued. He did well to take Nobile first, if the life of Nobile was the most important. If it were true that Nobile, though badly wounded, could give valuable advice for the carrying on of the rescue of the other shipwrecked men.

Says He Helped Rescuers.

And he said—once for all—that that decision was providential for my companions. It was a great fortune for them that I was on the Citta di Milano after Lund-borg's accident. Divine Providence who wished by that accident to prolong their martyrdom, calling the valiant Swede to participate in the hard trials, on the other hand had wished that in order to repair the consequences of the accident I should be found there. An ignominious triumph of calumny broke over me at the very moment when they should have thanked God that I was here.

Because, after all, it on the 12th of July the Krassin could reach and save my companions, in a certain way it was through my insistence in inciting the chief of the Russian expedition, Prof. Samoilovich, to advance, just when—depending on the damages sustained by the ice-breaker and the scarcity of combustible supply—every one aboard of the Citta di Milano gave up hope that it could advance beyond Cape North.

Everyone aboard already was giving all hope and all activities to the preparation of other means that experience had to demonstrate as insufficient.

Cites Praise by Comrades.

The Almighty, deciding that out of all my companions I alone should be taken in flight from the place where we had fallen when flying, had His design. This was perhaps understood by my companions, when, by means of the wireless, before leaving the pack, at the very moment of embarking on the Krassin, they sent their affectionate greetings to "their beloved General." This was perhaps what they wished to express when, having returned to Italy, in saying farewell, they embraced me, greatly moved, and thanked me for having chosen them to take part in the expedition.

For them I was not the head who had abandoned them, but the beloved head, the head who always precedes, even when to proceed might be considered cowardly by the cowards, while it is the demonstration of willing to accomplish his duty till the last and at any rate.

a block north of Manchester avenue and a block south of River des Peres. Exclusive of approach, the bridged part would be 550 feet long, supported by columns, except for a great arched span over the stream. It would be 80 feet wide, except for the arch, the width of which would be 60 feet. Clearance over Manchester avenue would be 16 feet and over the railroad tracks 22 feet.

Hampton avenue is to be 80 feet wide, extending from Forest Park, at Oakland avenue, to a point near the city limits on Gravois avenue. Seven ordinances appropriating $26,438 of bond issue funds to get the project under way are expected to be passed soon by the Board of Aldermen. These provide for grading or paving the thoroughfare to 80-foot width between Gravois avenue, near Gravois avenue, and River des Peres. The plan involves opening or widening of various sections. Widening of the stretch between Manchester and Oakland avenues will follow.

Condemnation commissioners reported last June that damages for the project between Gravois and Manchester avenues would be $295,074. They fixed benefits to surrounding property at exactly the same figure, although, according to W. C. Bernard, technical expert of the condemnation department, they thought benefits really would amount to $600,000. By assessing $600,000 against the city, the Circuit Court reduced net benefits against property to $129,074.

begin with fixing the total number of annuities Germany shall pay, and it is anticipated that this number will be about 60 to conform to the payments the allies must make on their debts to the United States.

The amount of these annuities will come next and the first figure expected to be settled will be about $27,300,000 annually to match the allied war debt payments.

Then will come the bargaining over the $250,000,000 in addition Germany now has to pay on its first "standard" annuity of $250,000,000. The bargaining is expected to begin with the allies asking for $175,000,000 and Germany offering $50,000,000, resulting eventually in a compromise of between $75,000,000 and $125,000,000.

This final figure will depend upon the value of the bonds Germany is willing to hand over to its creditors to reduce its terminal payments, thereby covering the allies' terminal war debt payments.

It is possible that instead of the $4,000,000,000 worth of railroad and industrial bonds now held by S. Parker Gilbert Jr., agent-general for reparations, a new series of bonds covering and, perhaps even increasing, this amount, will be issued directly by the German treasury as a state debt, which would change the character of the obligation into a purely commercial one.

To make possible the cutting of all terminal payments by at least 20 years Germany may also prove willing to increase these bonds from $2,000,000 to $7,500,000, receiving as its share of the bargain an annuity of a little more than $375,000,000.

That all nations concerned will make concessions to discount the terminal payments, whether of reparations or war debts, and clear up the matter within a generation is considered likely even before the experts meet.

Girls Want Smoking Room.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10.—Puffing in privacy has palled on girls at Barnard Hall, University of Wisconsin dormitory. They have asked the Board of Regents to provide them with a smoking room.

Those whose work requires Steady Nerves are turning to Tareytons

"We smoke all we want, yet keep fit," men and women tell investigators

BIG STORY BREAKS—Here's Alice Hughes, reporter on a large New York newspaper, getting an assignment from her city editor. "A newspaper woman can't have 'nerves.' She has to meet every type of person—be ready to take instant advantage of a situation," says Miss Hughes. "My nerves have never said 'too many cigarettes' since I started smoking Tareytons." Surely that's sound advice for the average smoker. Stick to Tareytons if you want nerves in sound condition. Smoke all you want, but smoke nothing else.

RISKS LIFE UNDER SEA—Above picture shows H. Siemer, crack diver, getting ready to explore submerged wreck under sea. A perilous job, if there ever was one. When asked about cigarettes recently, he answered, "What brand of cigarettes do I smoke? Say... have you ever found a man on a high-tension job like this that didn't smoke Tareytons? I smoke two packs a day... and my nerves are always in A1 condition." No wonder thousands of busy, active people everywhere, now follow this sane advice.

SALES doubled in one month... trebled in three. All records shattered... day after day. A 237% increase! Surely fine flavor alone couldn't account for it.

Go find out, we told investigators. Check up on Tareyton smokers... find out why so many men and women prefer this brand.

They went to large cities—to small towns. Talked to thousands in crowded stores. Questioned—reported. Got the facts.

This was the cigarette of busy people. Tareyton smokers did work that called for steady nerves.

A famous trial lawyer had smoked Tareytons for six years. Need of steady nerves his reason.

A deep sea diver working under the most perilous conditions found Tareytons never increased his nervous tension.

A trained nurse said, "They don't make me jumpy."

Everywhere they had found the same reason. Steady nerves. "You can smoke all you want." "They never make you nervous."

Speed... Hurry-up... this lightning pace of modern life! That's the reason for Tareytons' quick-gaining popularity. People say they can smoke one and two packs a day—and still keep nerves fit for exacting jobs.

Make a simple one-week test yourself.

Just switch to Tareytons for 7 days. Smoke as many as you want... but smoke nothing else.

And after a week of Tareytons see if you don't notice the difference in the way you feel.

ACE AFTER SPEED RECORD—William Ulbrich of Mineola, L. I., is a crack speed flyer with many hours in the air to his credit. Asked why he smoked Tareytons, Ulbrich said, "That's easy. A flyer has to have steady nerves. I smoke nothing but Tareytons... because they keep me in sound flying condition. I've noticed that most of the pilots do."

WRITES "BEST-SELLER" NOVEL—Mary Granger is shown here writing the last chapter of her new book "Wife to Pilate." It took a lot of research and long hard hours of writing. When asked about cigarettes Miss Granger said enthusiastically... "Why, I get my best ideas while smoking. Cigarettes always inspire me. But I'm careful to choose the brand that doesn't get my nerves. I stick to Tareytons... they seem to keep me in fit condition."

1. Humidor Package. 2. Heavy Foil. 3. Quality Tobacco. 4. Sealed Perforated Top. That's why there's no dryness... no crushing. The extra heavy foil used in Tareyton's famous humidor package assures you a fresh full-flavored smoke down to the last cigarette.

WHEN Commander Byrd set out for the bottom of the world he made sure of having the most positive, most successful protection against freezing for his water-cooled automotive equipment—he took Eveready Prestone. You can use this perfect anti-freeze with the same confidence that it will keep your car safe from freezing as long as winter lasts.

Regarding the choice of Eveready Prestone, Richard G. Brophy, Business Manager of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, has written:

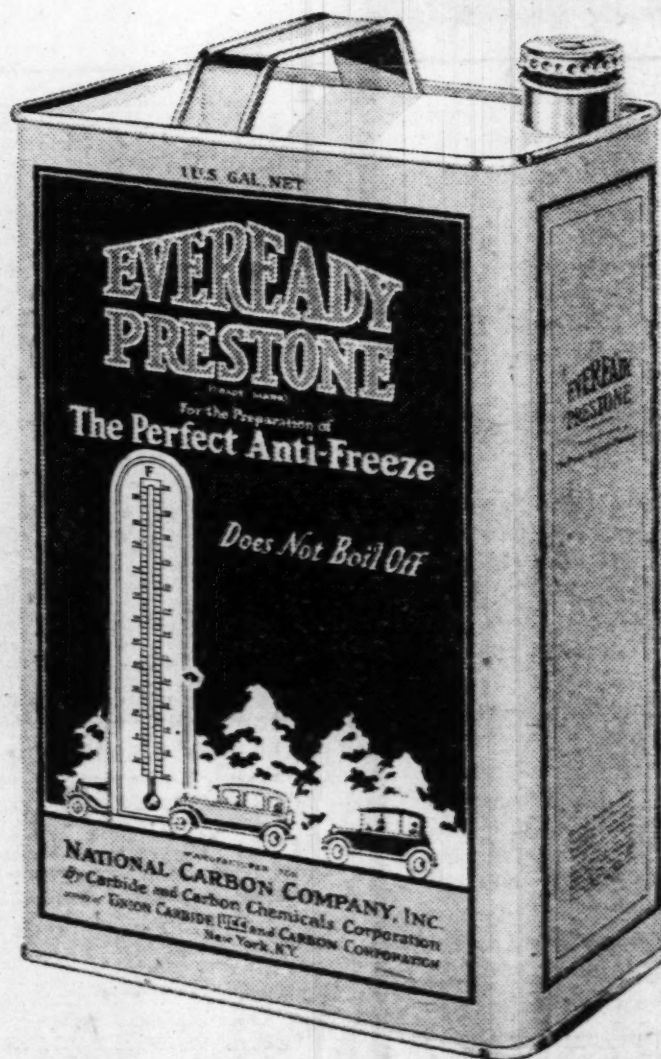

"The problem of preventing the freezing of the cooling systems of our tractors, snowmobile and generating plants is an extremely serious one in view of the below zero temperatures we will constantly encounter during our stay in Antarctica."

"Eveready Prestone anti-freeze mixture was selected upon the basis of tests made, and I am glad to know we shall have on hand an adequate supply of this mixture to safeguard the cooling systems of our various motor units."

Just as Commander Byrd found it necessary to have the best possible protection for his water-cooling automotive equipment so have the great dirigibles "Los Angeles" and "Graf Zeppelin" an equally imperative need for permanent, positive safety from frozen motors or radiators. There can be no compromise in motor protection in air service where a mistake would mean tragedy. The "Los Angeles" and the "Graf Zeppelin" chose Eveready Prestone.

Eveready Prestone is a pure undiluted product that contains absolutely no alcohol or glycerine. Your car deserves its unflinching protection. Invest today in the best winter insurance. BILL FOR UNLIMITED U. S. FLOOD CONTROL

Would Compel Commission to Acquire Flowage Rights Over Private Lands.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Full Government control of the Mississippi River flood waters throughout its valley is sought in a bill introduced by Chairman Reid of the House Flood Committee.

The legislation is needed, Reid declared, to compel the Mississippi River Commission to acquire flow rights for flood waters over privately-owned lands under the flood control act of 1928. He said he regarded the acquisition of such rights an essential part of the flood program, and that the measure was prompted by Major-General Jadwin's testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee, in which the General interpreted the flood act as not compelling the commission to acquire such rights.

This measure, Reid said, also would insure the control of the flood waters from Cape Girardeau, Mo., to the Gulf of Mexico and prevent their diversion over private lands.

"Under this amendment the chief of army engineers and the Mississippi River Commission," Reid said, "would be compelled to acquire flowage rights as we originally intended in the act of 1928. This amendment would prevent any injustice and would force the commission to control the flood waters from spillways, floodways, diversion channels, storage basins, and reservoirs from Cape Girardeau to the Gulf. It is intended to prevent loss of life and property to the valley residents."

Senator Hansell and Representative Wilson (Dems.) of Louisiana yesterday also introduced joint resolutions, to provide for equal treatment of all citizens in the valley in regard to payment by the Government for flowage rights under the 1928 act.

The resolutions propose that property owners in Boeuf Basin and Atchafalaya Basins in Arkansas and Louisiana be paid for flowage rights as well as those in the New Madrid, Mo., and the Bonnet Carre floodway areas.

Wilson explained that, according to an interpretation of the law by Jadwin, the property owners in New Madrid and Bonnet Carre areas were entitled to compensation for flowage rights, but that those in Boeuf Basin and Atchafalaya were not entitled to compensation.

REED OFFERS TREATY PLAN

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A resolution requesting the President to negotiate treaties with principal nations of the world for the protection of the rights of neutrals and the freedom of the seas was submitted today by Senator Reed (Dem.) of Missouri. The treaties would embrace the doctrines set forth in the treaty negotiated by Franklin, Jefferson and John Adams between Prussia and the United States. Reed explained he was not offering the resolution as a reservation to the Kellogg peace treaty but intended to ask for action on it at the appropriate time.

REFEREE TARGET OF FANS' IRE AS FLYERS LOSE TO DULUTH,

OFFICIAL OVERRULES GOAL LINEMAN ON ST. LOUIS SHOT; LOCALS HAVE LOST 5 IN ROW

By W. J. McGoogan

St. Louis is beginning to take its ice hockey seriously. Fans at the Winter Garden became incensed at the referee last night, threw paper at him, booed him and made threats against him because he would not allow the Flyers a score after the goal judge had raised his arm indicating a goal had been scored. This would have tied the score, but as it was the Flyers were down to defeat before the Duluth Hornets in an American Association match, 4 to 3. It was the fifth successive loss for St. Louis. The teams play again tonight, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Jack Hughes, of Winipeg, the referee, became the target for the fans in the third period. With St. Louis trailing, 4 to 3, a Flyer forward drove a shot hard at the Duluth net and it bounced out, but not until goal judge Stewart raised his arm as a signal that St. Louis had scored. Hughes, however, overruled Stewart, claiming that the puck had hit the pole in front of the net. He ordered play to go on after a face off. The crowd had howled in glee over the score, but the joy turned to dismay over the referee's ruling and a paper shower was directed at him.

Another goal followed. Breen scored for St. Louis shortly after, but the referee had rung his bell just previously indicating a St. Louis offense and that goal was not allowed. That started the howling again and the excitement increased when the favorite Flyer, Curly Headley, was chased off the ice for hooking. More boos and threats for the referee.

A small group gathered around Hughes' dressing room after the game but apparently they were only there out of curiosity for the referee was not harmed.

Inside the referee's office where the referee dresses, however, everyone was excited. Some of the officials of the St. Louis club argued with Hughes over his decision in not allowing the Flyers' first goal in the third period and the judge was called in for his version. It made no difference, however.

First Appearance Here. It was Hughes' first appearance in St. Louis. He is said to be an official of wide experience and was clearly within his rights in overruling the foul judge if he saw fit. He claimed the puck hit the pole in front of the Duluth net and bounced out, that he was right on top of the play when it happened and there was nothing for him to do but make the decision he did.

In any event the St. Louis team played its worst game of the season, at home at Duluth didn't show much either.

Danny Breen, the new defense man, making his debut here, was unable to stop the rushes of the Duluth forwards in the first period and that really brought defeat. Breen appears overweight and is painfully slow. The Duluth forwards got around him at will in the first period, when they counted three goals. One was made by Mitchell 32 seconds after the opening face. Thorsteinson pounded another through Anderson when he worked around Breen for a shot from close in at the 13-minute mark and Morrison added the third one on pass from Mitchell on another wide-open shot after 15 minutes.

In contrast, the Flyers scored twice in the first session and in both cases two Duluth men were off the ice on account of penalties.

Eight minutes after the opening of the second period, Curly Headley tied the score when he drove through the Duluth team and counted on a well-directed shot. Headley's playing throughout was the one real bright spot. It always took a couple of Duluth men to stop Headley and finally one clipped him in the nose in a scuffle and cut that member. After the game, however, Headley said he would be in there again tonight.

About two minutes after Headley had knotted the count Thorsteinson took a pass from Williams and scored what proved to be the deciding goal. While there was much skating hither and thither in the closing session, tripping, hooking and bashing were few and whatnot there was no scoring.

NEW SWIM MEET EXPECTED IN SWIM MEET TONIGHT

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Several indoor swimming records will be threatened or shattered tonight when more than a score of aquatic stars meet in the Central Amateur Athletic Union men and women's championships at the Lake Shore Athletic Club pool.

Walter Lauffer of the Lake Shore Club is out to break his world record in the 300-yard medley, while Jane Faunt, 17-year-old Illinois Women's Athletic Club star, will attempt to break records in breast stroke events.

Too True. "There's one thing in favor of Jack making a successful comeback. He'd have a better chance against an army of second-raters than against one first-class marine."

As the Marine hazard has eliminated himself and as Jack already has taken Jack Sharkey, it looks like Young Stripling will be the outstanding obstacle in the path that leads to glory or oblivion.

We have always thought that holding meetings was one of the best things the major leagues did. However it is just another one of those examples of the uncertainties of baseball.

Mary O'Connell Is Out of Game With Chicagoans

Following last night's practice, Coach Marty Mullen of the championship Bachelors announced that Mary O'Connell, star stationery guard, probably would see little action Saturday night when the Bachelors meet the Jewish People's Institute team of Chicago at the Armory in an intercity game.

Mullen stated that an examination of Miss O'Connell's left ankle, which was at first believed to have been sprained, revealed a small bone had been broken.

The Schenberg club, which is slated to meet the Chicagoans Sunday afternoon, is in tip-top condition and will be strengthened through the addition of Justine O'Leary, a former Washington University player, and the return of Nelson Curran, guard, who has been ill for the past two weeks.

Tickets are being sold for both intercity games at the local sporting goods houses, the Y. M. H. A. and the Schenberg markets.

SYRACUSE STUDENT BODY VOTES AGAINST REGULAR GRID LEADER

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The student body at Syracuse University does not want a football captain. The Men's Senate, the student governing body, has recommended to the Athletic Governing Board that no permanent captain of the eleven be elected for the coming season. The board may approve the recommendation at its meeting on Saturday and may adopt the plan of Coach Lew Anderson to appoint a captain before each game.

Referee Tells What Soccer Players Should Do on First Practice Night of Week

FOLLOWING is the second of a series of articles, outlining a simple, but effective method of soccer training, dictated by Oscar Mussmann, referee of the St. Louis League. Mussmann was president of the South Germany Referee's Association for six years, in which time he officiated in over 300 first division and many international matches. He trained, as a player, under the best coaches in Europe. Articles will appear in the Post-Dispatch from time to time.

NO. 2—METHOD OF TRAINING (FIRST NIGHT) IN Europe, most clubs get together for practice on three nights each week, but here I believe it may be advisable to limit the meetings to two nights. The players should assemble in a gymnasium large enough to permit the coach to handle 14 or 15 men. Light, rubber-soled gymnasium shoes should be worn by all players, and the usual soccer ball or gymnasium ball should be used. The equipment, of rubber kicking, passing, trapping, etc., with soft gymnasium shoes, the players are careful not to kick with the toe for it causes considerable pain. Instead kicking thus becomes natural. On the field, too kicking, except in very rare instances, is to be avoided because it is very inaccurate. The first practice night should be Monday or Tuesday, preferably Tuesday.

Some Blackboard Talks. THE first half hour, perhaps longer, is devoted to discussion of the previous Sunday's game. The coach, standing before a blackboard, reviews the play of the individual players and the individuals, pointing out specific instances of mistakes and showing the way to correct them. European clubs consider this a very important feature of their training and players are required to give strict attention to the coach's instructions to the letter.

The remaining portion of the evening's work is given over to exercises. Usually, no ball is used on the first night. With the players lined up before him, the trainer puts them through drills with the ball, to loosen up the muscles and to develop freedom in kicking, heading, side-stepping, etc. Here are some of the exercises:

- 1—Light leg swinging, first one leg, then the other, forward and backward, with hands on hips.
- 2—Swinging leg forward, to level of waist, with knee stiff.
- 3—Swinging leg out to side.
- 4—Raising leg forward to level of waist with knee bent and toe pointing straight downward.
- 5—Raising leg up behind and bending knee.
- 6—Jumping, raising one knee at a time till it touches chest.
- 7—Jumping and squatting.
- 8—Walking briskly to finish off exercise and cool off.

The purpose of most of the exercises is to keep the players in good physical condition. Leg exercises help to develop calf and thigh muscles which are brought into play in the game. A bath and rubdown complete the evening's training.

Next—Passing with side of foot.

Only 27 Cardinals on List Likely to Make Trip to Training Camp

By J. Roy Stockton.

Billy Southworth, the new Cardinal manager, will not waste any time looking over humpy dumpty ball players who National League champions gather at Avon Park next spring to prepare for the 1929 pennant race. Billy will have the smallest team that ever trained at a Cardinal camp. Only 27 active players, likely to be on the Florida roster and it is possible that there will be only 25 actives, which would put the Cardinals within the season player limit.

At present the roster includes 29 active players—10 pitchers, four catchers, six infielders and six outfielders—but George Watkins, now the property of the Houston club, undoubtedly will be at the Cardinal camp, though the formality of a transfer to the Cardinal roster may be delayed until after he has shown his stuff in the exhibition games.

Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager, said this morning that one of the players now on the roster probably would be placed with a minor league club on option, perhaps before the training season opens. Rickey declined to name the player, or the department from which he would be taken, but it is considered likely that one of the four catchers will be the one to go.

Mancuso May Not Go. Gus Mancuso, a promising young backstop, needs further seasoning and would progress much more rapidly with a minor league club, catching every day, than he would sitting on the bench. Then it would be good insurance to have him available on short notice, in case of injury to Jimmy Wilson. The other Cardinal catchers are Clarence Jonnard and Earl Smith.

This year's squad will be in striking contrast to some of the armies that have worn Cardinal uniforms in Florida. In 1923 at Bradenton, there were 60 players when the Cards were building up. But now they have arrived and chosen in arranging his 1929 machine.

Can't Stand the Overhead.

WHEN the Western District A. A. U. passed a rule authorizing the levying of a 5 per cent tax on the receipts of all amateur shows held in the district it threw a match into the powder magazine.

Although the National A. A. U. approved the rule, and awarded the national basketball championship to this district, it is entirely probable that either the rule or the tourney will have to be abandoned.

The Kansas City Athletic Club, which annually holds this championship, has written to the district officials here that it can not go forward with the title event under such a tax and that unless the rule is suspended or abrogated, the national championship will be abandoned for 1929.

Kansas Objects.

ALSO, the Kansas Athletic officials have written the Western District leaders asking that the tax rule be suspended as the promotion of amateur boxing events in that state already is levied 5 per cent. A total of 10 per cent tax on the receipts would be prohibitive, it is said.

All of which has induced the Western District heads to call a meeting here next week at which the subject will be reconsidered and the rule probably abandoned. If it is, the 5 per cent tax on two shows already collected here will be returned to the promoters.

Just a Humpty Dumpty?

HUMPTY DUMPTY sat on a wall; Humpty Dumpty had a great fall.

We recommend this ancient line to "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, who we are led to believe, is now in something of the position of the celebrated Mother Goose hero who couldn't be put together again after he panicked.

Gus, who is our most recent Wayne Munn, and now reposes on the wrestling champion's throne, is due for a great fall, provided he is not careful in his future match making.

A wrestler who appeared on the same card with Sonnenberg, last December, and who has been working through the East says that, after watching this newly-built title-holder, he believes Joe Sanderson, or almost any good middle-weight could "take" Dynamite Gus.

Sonnenberg has just two holds and one of them isn't a hold, he comments. "The first is what they have called the 'flying tackle.' It isn't anything but a rush with lowered head into the midsection of an opponent, with the idea of bowling him over and then falling on him.

"The other attacking asset is a finish scissors hold. He isn't a finished wrestler and never will be until he goes into the gymnasium and learns the truth about wrestling from men who know."

And that's that.

Another on the Chin.

OUR informant, who is a close friend of old Stanley Zibzyko declares that Zibzyko has gone into the wrestling promotion game himself and is managing a string of mat wallpapers.

Stanley tried to match one of his string with Sonnenberg, but Paul Bowser, Sonnenberg's manager, ran out on him, we are told. Zibzyko became angered, and caused to be printed and placed about the city of Boston, in sporting centers, posters reading something like this:

"I will give $1000 to Gus Sonnenberg if he will agree to arrange a match with Nat Nazzarian and I will bet any part of $5000, at odds of 2 to 1, that Nazzarian will beat Sonnenberg if they meet."

"Now, Mr. Sonnenberg, show your nerve."

But Sonnenberg, it is related, has not shown it.

It will be recalled that, after Big Munn won the title, challenges were hurled at him from all sides by wrestlers from mid-weights up. But Munn picked 'em carefully—until he picked Zibzy in Philadelphia.

Wonder what lemon Sonnenberg will pick? That return match soon, Ed; otherwise the cream will be skimmed off the gate receipts by somebody else.

WILLIAM MULDOON, Real "Iron Man"

Life Story of the 83-Year-Old Athlete and Trainer

Building Up Denver Ed Smith Through a Match With Peter Jackson—The Break With Sullivan.

By Ed Van Every,

Of the New York Evening World.

CHAPTER XXIII.

IT was only a few days less than one year after the Sullivan-Kilrain contest that the principals in the battle of Kilrain, and those found guilty of aiding and abetting this "crime" against the welfare of the State had their punishment meted out by the law of Mississippi. Sullivan was fined $1000. Muldoon was forced to pay over $250, and Mike Donovan and Mike Cleary $100 each, as the result of their trial at Purvis, Miss., in June, 1929.

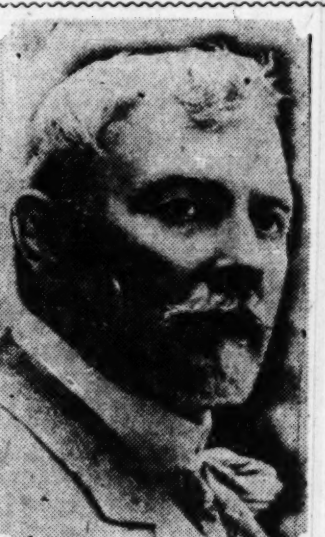

As usual, the months that preceded were eventful ones in the history of William Muldoon.

His combination with Jake Kilrain was broken up for a time following the latter's defeat by Jim Corbett. The defeated heavyweight went to Hot Springs for a short vacation, where a benefit was arranged for him. It took place at the then famed Casino and was participated in by the wrestling champion. The sentence of the Circuit Court of Marion County had been reaffirmed by the Supreme Court in the case of Kilrain, and he was forced to spend two months in jail. These two months turned out to be among the pleasantest in the existence of the prizefighter. It was spent on the estate of Col. Rich, and was served in shooting, fishing, swimming and enjoying himself generally.

Enter Denver Ed Smith.

DURING the absence of Kilrain, Muldoon continued the tour of the athlete combination, and also brought to light a new heavyweight prospect, Denver Ed Smith. One of his athletes, Mike Cleary, went into a match with Smith, and was seconded by Muldoon. It lasted only a round or two. Smith landed a hard right to the stomach and then brought up a left to the jaw that floored Cleary. When the latter came up he was clipped with a savage uppercut and it was all over.

Denver Ed Smith then went under the management of Muldoon, and the latter not only became his trainer, but also made the pugilist a member of his athletic aggregation. Muldoon thought so highly of his new heavyweight that he matched him with Peter Jackson, the Negro heavyweight champion. Jackson was the first of the black menaces, and from all accounts the finest fighter and man of them all. He was at that time regarded as the outstanding challenger for the championship. That fast young chap from the Coast, Jim Corbett, was getting to be pretty well thought of, and he had added to the prestige of his victory over Kilrain by going to New York and giving a display of his boxing skill against Dominick McCaffrey. Gentleman Jim made a fine impression by his cleverness and agreeable personality and was the first professional pugilist ever to be accorded the privileges of a guest of the New York Athletic Club. Still, he was not then regarded in a class with Jackson. It was agreed that it was foolhardy on the part of Muldoon to consent to his protegee meeting this formidable fighting man.

Nevertheless, Muldoon and Smith journeyed to Chicago for the contest with the Negro. The bout suffered two slight delays, as, in the meanwhile, Jackson had been made an attractive offer by the California Athletic Club, which had ordered him not to fight. Muldoon insisted on the match taking place and it was finally held on May 19. It was limited to five rounds, at the end of which the referee ruled that in view of his first-round showing, Jackson had the advantage over Smith.

Smith started off well by rushing Jackson to the ropes in the latter's own corner. But then the Negro turned on his opponent and knocked him down five times. Smith came right up, disdaining to take a count either time, and in the next four rounds, Jackson, who had been too well winded and dined by the Chicago sports during his stay there, was described by Muldoon as getting no better than an even break. On the whole, Muldoon was fairly pleased with the showing of his fighter and it was announced immediately that he had signed Smith up for a term of three years. Smith weighed under 180 pounds and had given away around 25 pounds to Jackson.

Smith vs. Daly.

UNDER the Muldoon management, Smith then fought in the Arlington A. C. of Buffalo on the night of June 16, 1929. The contest was for a purse of $1500, and in addition Muldoon backed his man for $500 against the club, which sponsored Jim Daly of Philadelphia. Daly was seconded by Steve Brodie and one other, whose name has slipped the Muldoon memory. It was Griffin, or Griffith, and he played an exciting role in the doings of the evening. Smith was seconded by Muldoon and Cleary, the man whom Denver Ed had knocked out only a short time previous.

"Billy Muldoon," according to an old clipping, "cut a great figure in sky-blue trousers and a lannel shirt of the same hue."

But dropped into the very first round and Brodie jumped into the ring and blew a spray of water over his man. Cleary rushed after Brodie and Steve, "who had some reputation as a jumper, dived from the ring." It looked like serious trouble for an instant until Muldoon took the hand and quieted things. Daly was floored again in the fifth and once more Brodie, contrary to the rules, entered the ring to assist his man. He was quite forcibly ejected by Muldoon, who declared he would insist on the match on a foul if the offense were repeated.

Brodie thereupon contented himself with running around the ring and shouting for Daly to get up and fight, and as fast as Daly got up Denver Ed proceeded to smash him down. Brodie's actions brought a protest from Alderman Jack Davy, and the latter was knocked unconscious with a blow to the jaw by Brodie's assistant. As soon as the afternoon recovered consciousness he started to pull a gun and the offending second hurriedly disappeared.

After this interesting night Muldoon joined Kilrain in New York, where they had a theatrical engagement. In one way and another, came the return to Mississippi, where the law took its course in the case of the Sullivan-Kilrain affair. Muldoon pleaded guilty and made an impressive speech in which he professed great regret over having broken the laws of the State. In one way and another, came the return to Mississippi, where the law took its course in the case of the Sullivan-Kilrain affair. Muldoon pleaded guilty and made an impressive speech in which he professed great regret over having broken the laws of the State.

Breaks With Sullivan.

BUT the affair precipitated a quarrel between Muldoon and Sullivan that created a deal of excitement and controversy. Duncan B. Harrison, who had affiliated himself with John L. in the production of the play, "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands," which was to be launched shortly with the heavyweight champion in the stellular role, charged that he had seen a letter written by Muldoon, in which the latter had offered to turn State's evidence against Sullivan in the trial at Purvis, if he (Muldoon) was lightly dealt with.

The alleged treachery broke into a rage. Then he got drunk, and the drunker he got the more his rage increased. He rushed about Purvis seeking his former trainer and vowing he would kill him on sight should they meet. The court had just disposed of Sullivan's case and he had been released. Sullivan tried their best to quiet him. Fortunately, Muldoon, knowing nothing of this new development, had departed for New Orleans, but there was no restraining John L. once he had broken loose.

It came as a shock to Muldoon, back in New Orleans, when he read Rich sent word to the wrestling champion that it was important that he should see Muldoon at once, as he had just received a nasty telegram from Sullivan in which John L. threatened the person of his former trainer.

A telegram from Sullivan to Rich was as follows:

"Detain Muldoon in New Orleans 24 hours. I intend to wipe him off the earth."

Muldoon Forces the Issue.

COL. RICH, it will be recalled, was the wealthy sportsman on whose property the Sullivan-Kilrain contest had taken place. He was very friendly to both Muldoon and Sullivan, and he was anxious that no trouble should take place between them. He advised the departure of Muldoon.

"Sullivan is in a mad and drunken frenzy just now," he pointed out, "and will be for a day or so. When he is sober he will think differently and the two of you can come to an understanding."

Muldoon handed the telegram back to Rich and answered slowly and evenly:

"Sullivan has wired you that he wants to see me. I'll stay with you, so John knows where he can find me."

The 24 hours went by and Sullivan did not appear. Muldoon waited for him 48 hours longer.

Then came the news that John L. had departed by a different route for New York. Muldoon immediately followed him and upon his arrival lost no time in forcing the issue toward bringing the quarrel with Sullivan to a head. And Muldoon's course was one that apparently could mean but one thing, a physical clash between the two. He did nothing less than send an open challenge to the heavyweight champion, one that called for a man-to-man meeting.

TWO ST. LOUIS STARS QUALIFY IN COAST EVENT

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 10.—Survivors of the 36-hole qualifying play in the Los Angeles $10,000 open golf tournament rested today preparatory to the 72-hole grind starting tomorrow, which will bring about 130 of the country's leading club wielders into action.

The qualifying rounds yesterday, held over six courses, slashed a contesting field of slightly more than 200 down to 120 players. These survivors and 40 others who were exempt from qualification because of their showing in the national open and last year's Los Angeles open, will start the "big money" drive on the Riviera Country Club course, near John Monica, tomorrow. There will be 25 holes of play during the first two days, and the low 64 scorers and ties go into the 36-hole final drive Sunday.

With but one or two outstanding exceptions the 200 odd players who fell by the wayside in yesterday's qualifying grind were lesser knowns of the realm of golf. Dan Williams, young professional from Shackson, N. J., made it known that he was one to be reckoned with when he passed the preliminary test leading the field with 72-69-141. His card was one stroke better than that of Johnny Rodgers of Denver, Colo., who is acclaimed by many of his fellows as perhaps the greatest wood and iron shot in the country when on his game, and John Junor of Portland, Rodgers got a 69-73. Junor's golf was the more consistent, the Portland professional turning in a 71 for each of his trips. Frank Roda of Seattle turned in a 143 for the preliminary tests, while Johnny Golden, stocky Paterson (N. J.) professional, had 144.

Two St. Louis golfers, Ben Richter and Clarke Morse, qualified for the tournament proper. Richter had a total of 151, with cards of 74 and 77, while Morse shot two rounds of 76 to total 152.

MacDonald Smith of the Lakeville Country Club, Great Neck, L. I., as the defending titlist, was not obliged to qualify. Others who were entitled to this consideration included Walter Hagen, British open champion; George Von Elm, former national amateur champion; Al Espinosa, another Chicagoan; Tommy Armour, former national open king; Leo Diegel, national professional champion; Horton Smith, 21-year-old star of Joplin, Mo.; Henri Cuiet of Bridgeport, Conn.; Roland Hancock, Wilmington, N. C.; Al Watrous of Detroit; Bill Mahan of New York and Bobby Cruikshank of Purchase, N. Y.

Designed as a rigid test of golf, the Riviera layout is particularly suited to the play of long-hitting professionals. Those who have followed the string of Western tourneys during the last few weeks have expressed the belief that Hagen, Smith and Diegel should be installed as favorites.

CORN AGAIN FEATURES
CHICAGO GRAIN TRADE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Corn became the grain market leader today and, with aggressive commission house buying, advanced all around to new high price records for the season. Drouth reported prevailing in part of Argentina, and reported threatening damage to the corn crop there was made much of as a bullish factor af-er may decline. At today's top prices, May delivery of corn showed more than 5 cents a bushel advance since Tuesday. Corn closed unsettled, 1½¢ to 1½¢ net higher, wheat 1½¢ to 2¢ up, oats ¾¢ to ¾¢ advance and provisions showing 2¢ to 10¢ gain.

At noon wheat was ¾¢ to 1¢ net higher and corn ¾¢ to 1½¢ up.

121	wheat prices underwent an early set-
91 3/4	back today, and corn also declined.
90	European markets failed to reflect fully
87	yesterday's upturn on the side of the Atlantic, and conditions suggested that
93 7/8	buyers were not following advances either
108 1/2	in wheat or corn. Opening unchanged to
100 1/8	1c higher. Chicago wheat soon declined
94	all around. Corn started unchanged to

101 1/2 "Secure and subsequently showed a moderate general drop. Oats were firm. Provisions also tended to advance."

103 1/2 "With Liverpool wheat quotations displaying relative indifference to advances here, the selling side of the Chicago wheat market received better backing early today, and bears were in a majority a good share of the time. On the other hand, report was at hand indicating a decline in

91% outlook for domestic winter wheat is not 97% nearly so favorable as at the first of the 89% year. Some sections, especially of Illinois,
100% Indiana and Ohio, sent word that some
92% acreage is apt to be smothered out.
93% Corn market declines, which took place
103% at times today, were ascribed largely to 99% Buenos Aires comment saying that in Corleba Province, which rears some 30 mil-

cent of the Argentine corn area, soaking rains have continued previous good crop prospects, but that other zones where drought has prevailed are still dry. Besides, domestic corn belt weather today was improved. However, not much corn was being booked to arrive here, and at least some corn export business was again in progress.

Lumbago Had Me Almost Crazy

"The pain in my back and the sudden 'stitches' had me bent double. Sometimes the pain would catch me so sharply I almost fainted. I was frantic trying one thing after another. You can imagine my surprise, my joy when plain 'St. Jacob's Oil' brought me the relief I had sought for years."

"St. Jacob's Oil" gives almost instant relief from soreness, stiffness, lameness and pain. Its action is unique—soothing and penetrating in one. BEWARE THE COUGHS THAT FOLLOW FLU

They May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the infection and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed safe in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is especially for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid the fever, or think you may have the fever, or see your doctor immediately.

Witnesses for the defense in the suit of William E. Dempsey to set aside the will of his sister, Miss Ellen Dempsey, 2816A Franklin avenue, testifying at the trial in Circuit Judge Green's Court, have denied his contention that she was mentally impaired and thereby incompetent to make a legal will.

Their testimony is to the effect that Miss Dempsey was not much different, if any, from the average maiden person of her years and they did not regard her as peculiar. She was 65 years old at her death June 10, 1928, leaving an estate valued at $75,000 to the Little Sisters of the Poor and the St. Mary's Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, excluding her brother, who asserts he is entitled to the whole estate as her sole lawful heir, in the absence of a legal will.

Testimony brought out in behalf of the brother has been to the effect that his sister was untidy about her personal habits, that she had a glassy stare and kept moving her jaws; that she slept in a wicker chair for 11 years, preferring that to a bed, that she wore men's shoes and repudiated purchases she made of merchandise in addition to other alleged peculiarities.

Friends of Miss Dempsey, however, declared in their testimony they had never seen nor heard the things mentioned by the other witnesses.

It was explained by a witness for the estate that a peculiar facial expression manifested by Miss Dempsey, which one witness for the plaintiff took to be an indication of insanity, was probably due to a set of false teeth which did not fit her. Her former attorney, Daniel O'Keefe, testified she was always able to transact legal business and seemed to be fully aware of what she was doing. He also denied that she did not keep herself looking well or that she went about with rouge and paint smeared over dirt on her face, as claimed.

At yesterday's session it was brought out that Miss Dempsey was annoyed because her brother and his wife made a trip to Europe during the time before her death, several years before her death. One witness quoted her as saying that William would never get a cent of her money to spend that way. She inherited her property from Steve Dempsey, a brother, who died in 1917. Steve and William Dempsey were partners in the huckster business.

SAYS HUSBAND TOOK WOMAN TO THE DERBY, GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. Marguerite J. Brooks States She Was Introduced as Wife of a Friend.

Naming a woman whom she charged her husband maintained in an apartment and took with him to the Kentucky Derby last May, Mrs. Marguerite J. Brooks, 4111 Magnolia avenue, yesterday divorced William J. Brooks, a real estate salesman, of the Melbourne Hotel, on grounds of general indignities and desertion.

She testified that they were married in April 1917, and separated last September. She learned of the "other woman," she said, when she took her husband to the Union Station the night before Derby day and was introduced to the woman as the wife of a friend of her husband. Brooks filed a general declaration without contesting.

Rump, who was injured some time ago while in the postal service, be increased. At present he draws $60 a month.

law for a great bowling party once a month and during the summer they not only had the bowling parties but they gave large picnics and dances.

Mrs. Bange, 3743 Palm street, is the president, and Mrs. Clara Kuhs Beckman, a moving spirit in the club, is the secretary.

The old Northwest Turner Hall on Beaumont street was the first meeting place and it was here that the club bowled weekly for many years. The hall has since been converted into a moving picture house and for the past several years the club has met at Alhambra Grotto.

"While the club was organized for the express purpose of family gatherings," said Mrs. Bange, "we did not want to be clanish, so we invited our friends. We play bridge once a month and give no prizes."

The club arranged bowling parties for sons and sons-in-law and bridge parties for daughters-in-law and as time went on the members found themselves hooked to small grandchildren at picnics and parties.

The club is looking forward to the celebration of several golden wedding anniversaries within the next few years.

In bowling the women average 135 with the exception of Miss Emma Toch, whose average is 132. Mrs. August Kuhs, who recently celebrated her seventieth birthday, is an enthusiastic bowler and rarely misses a meeting.

"In all the years" said one loyal member, "we have never had a misunderstanding and have only lost one member, Mrs. Amelia Kuhs Hake, who passed on several years ago."

CHILDREN NEED OUTDOOR TOYS

By Agnes Lyne

A GOOD share of every child's days should be the sort that stimulates him to vigorous exercise out of doors. He needs them especially in the winter when the weather is not friendly and when he should have every inducement to make him stay out in the sunshine which he needs so much.

For the toddler the kiddie car is still one of the best outdoor toys to be had. Its simplicity and safety are not to be beaten. The merest baby with hardly any skill at all can shuffle himself along and gradually learn to go as fast as he likes. For him, too, all toys that he can draw after him on a string are an incentive to exercise. A well made snow shovel that will not break will keep him happy in the sun on many a winter morning.

The three and four year olds have graduated to the multiple joys of the sled, the velocipede, the scooter and the express wagon. The velocipede which whizzes along with its shrill bell is so popular that it needs no comment. The scooter and express wagon, while almost equally popular, have one fault—the same foot is used all the time along the side to do the pushing, so that both sides of the body are not equally exercised. If they are among a variety of toys that "go" they do no harm, and the express wagon is good the year round for all the endless carting and trucking and delivering of things which are part of every normal child's play.

Ice skates are fine for the older adventures and the skates on double runners do no harm to the babies who want to try everything. They serve as an initiation into the fine art of real skating later on.

The rope ladder, the see-saw, the jungle gym and the swing are good for the sunny back yard all winter, but the cost of buying well-made ones is generally too high for a single family's budget. When the father of the family is handy with his tools the children can have this valuable apparatus to help them build strong and skillful bodies all winter long.

THE HUMAN BODY

By Dr. Logan Clendening.

CAN TOBACCO BE RENDERED HARMLESS?

ONE of the certain and unescapable facts about human life, at least on earth, is that human beings are very prone to form habits. These habits not only consist in the performance of such daily functions as dressing and undressing at certain times and according to a certain routine, but include the addition to the use of substances which have no food value and can be classified only as drugs. These include tea, coffee, alcohol, aspirin, cathartics and tobacco. There is absolutely no logic in the introduction of these substances into the body under most circumstances, and certainly, in the case of tobacco, never any logic in its introduction, and yet, as all reformers know, they are among the most stubborn practices to eradicate. It must look sometimes to reformers as if mankind as a rule just generally didn't want to be logical or hygienic.

Tobacco depends for its agreeableness on the presence of an extremely poisonous alkaloid called nicotine. Nicotine itself is one of the most potent poisons known. An absurdly small amount, if introduced directly into the blood by a hypodermic syringe, would kill anyone, even the most hardened smoker, in a very short time. Actually, only very small amounts, and those possibly changed or volatilized by the heat from the burning of the tobacco, are absorbed. And, of course, as time goes on, every smoker develops an immunity to the effects of the drug. In reality smoking does little or no harm; there has been, I understand, a prize of $10,000 offered for many years by an individual in Boston to anyone who can prove that tobacco has a permanent deleterious effect on the body. Methods to denicotinize tobacco are more successful than the average smoker, or indeed than the average reformer, realizes. Of course no tobacco, completely freed from nicotine, would be acceptable to a real smoker. But no such claims are made, the labels on most of the denicotinized brands of tobacco stating that "the bulk of the nicotine has been removed."

We are assured on reliable authority that the first place the amount of nicotine in different tobaccos varies greatly. Virginia tobacco contains 2 to 3 per cent, while Havana tobacco contains only 1 to 2 per cent, and Turkish even less. It is possible to remove nicotine from the leaf by a re-sweetening process consisting of a treatment by superheated steam or heating in vacuum chambers. Some samples recently analyzed by chemists for the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station were found to contain as little as three-fourths per cent of nicotine, but that was the lowest.

Another article by Dr. Clendening will be printed tomorrow. (Copyright, 1929.)

A dab of whipped cream with a sprig of parsley atop gives a most appetizing appearance to the cream of tomato soup.

C. E. T.—As to the price paid by political parties for having the names of candidates broadcast, this was a flat commercial rate determined by the number of stations on the particular part of the "hookup" used.

The term "wave length" is the distance between two consecutive waves of the same frequency. The length of the wave is the length of the transmitter wave from one point on it to a corresponding point on the next wave. For instance, from the lowest point of one depression to the lowest point of the next depression would be one wave length, and this is true for the length from one point to any corresponding point above depression.

A. G.—A blanket ballot is a ballot which covers everything connected with the election. Each party has on this ballot a vertical column with the name of the candidate in this column. A voter disregards all party columns except the one for the party of his choice. If he is voting a straight ticket, (2) A separate ballot is a ballot for each separate party, used generally in primary elections. The voter names the election judges and the election judges hand him the ballot for that party. Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourished—you lose weight.
Pape's Diapiesin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.
Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapiesin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.

WALL STREET STOCK PRICE MOVEMENTS IRREGULAR

Week-End Profit Taking Assumes Rather Large Proportions in Late Afternoon.

CALL MONEY RAISED TO 7 PER CENT BASIS

Steel and Utility Issues Prominent in Day's Trade—U. S. Steel Bid Up in Late Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Heavy buying of the steel shares, based on reports of unusually favorable trade conditions, featured the irregular higher price movement in today's stock market. Although operators for the advance retained control of the general price movement, some liquidation developed in the food and motor shares, several of which fell back 2 to nearly 5 points around midday. Trading was fairly heavy in volume, but the market kept well abreast of the market.

Week-end profit taking assumed rather large proportions in the late afternoon, with U. S. Steel and several other leaders dropping back a couple of points from their earlier high figures. The motors, especially General Motors, showed unusual heaviness. In the means a handful of stocks reflected rising support in advances of 4 to 7 1/2 points in Penn. Marquette and Union Steel, Columbia Gas and Electric, American Steel Foundries and Beecham Packing. Commonwealth Power rose 10 1/2 points to 11 1/2, a new high.

U. S. Steel again encountered rising support in closing transactions, rising to 168 1/2. Call money rose to 7 per cent in late trading. At the close the average price of industrial stocks was down to 119, compared with 120.4 previous close, while 20 railroad shares at 134.0 compared with 143.5 last night. Twenty utility average rose to 192.7 from 194.7. Sales approximated 4,200,000 shares.

The 6 per cent call money renewal rate was retained, despite the disappointingly small decrease in interest rates. The Chicago Federal Reserve Bank followed the lead of the New York institution, making no change in its 5 per cent rediscount rate. Except for advance in brass ingot prices and a sharp rise in rubber futures, today's trade news was rather unimportant in character.

Power Merger Influence Felt. The announcement of a new public utility holding company by J. P. Morgan & Co. interested investors in the power and light stocks. Commonwealth Power and American Water Works quickly advanced 4 1/2 points, the former to a new high of 117 1/2, and several others moved up a point or two. The brick demand for U. S. Steel common, which advanced more than 4 points to 168 1/2, was influenced in part by unconfirmed rumors that the corporation might contribute part of the $26,000,000 recently received in Federal tax refunds as an extra dividend. Bethlehem was heavily bought. The stock market met late this month. The market ran up more than 4 points. Last quarter earnings of the leading producers are expected to make an excellent comparison with the corresponding quarter of 1927. New bond offerings this week were less than $18,000,000, or about 1/2 the total of the preceding week, and more than $100,000,000 in the total of the corresponding week a year ago. This explains, in part, why a large part of the money reinvestment demand has found its way into the stock market.

Some Sharp Gains. Some of the sharpest gains of the day were recorded by such issues as Allied Chemical, International Telephone, National Bellas Hess, and National Refining preferred. Standard Oil, Stewart-Warner, Raychem, Air Reduction, U. S. Rubber, and U. S. Steel common, all of which sold 4 to 5 1/2 points higher in first three hours.

National Biscuit dropped more than 4 points, National Tea 5, and Baker, Pierce-Arrow, Montgomery Ward, du Pont and Union Pacific fell back 2 points or more in late period.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on the financial pages.
